Gangster Pujari beaten up over pro-Pak slogans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

NOTORIOUS gangster Jayesh Pujari was beaten up on the court premises here on Wednesday for allegedly raising pro-Pakistan slogans. Pujari, who is lodged at Hindalga central jail in Belagavi district, was brought to the court in connection with a case registered against him in 2018 for allegedly threatening the then Additional Director General of Police (ADGP) Alok Kumar.

While he was being brought to the court premises, he started shouting "Pakistan zindabad". This irked the people, including lawyers, on the court premises, who assaulted Pujari. Police, however, secured Pujari and took him to the APMC police station.

Last year, Pujari threatened Union minister Nitin Gadakari by calling his office and demanding that Rs 100 crore be paid to him. Convicted in a double-murder case, Pujari hails from Dakshina Kannada district. The reason for Pujari raising pro-Pakistan slogans is not known, the police said.

Sources, however, said Pujari allegedly raised the slogans as he was upset that his grievances were not addressed and he was allegedly not allowed to present his case before the court.

4 offered ₹20L not to name Darshan, reveals probe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

INVESTIGATIONS into the murder of Chitradurga pharmacy worker KS Renukaswamy, 33, in which actor Darshan and 12 others have been arrested, have revealed that the four accused, who had surrendered before the police, were offered Rs 20 lakh to ensure that the actor's name doesn't come up in the case.

From Saturday night till the body was dumped by the side of the stormwater drain near Sumanahalli bridge in the wee hours of Sunday, Rs 10 lakh was paid to two of the four accused. The four accused agreed to confess that they had murdered Renukaswamy after accepting the money offered to them. They worked for a firm engaged in seizing vehicles from loan defaulters. The firm has taken the land, where Renukaswamy was murdered in a shed, on lease, police sources said.

Deepak, one of the accused, is alleged to have given Rs 5 lakh each to Nikhil Naik and Keshavamurthy. As per the deal, the remaining amount of Rs 10 lakh was to be paid to the family members of Karthik alias Kappe and Raghavendra after they went to jail.

The four accused are alleged to have had WhatsApp conversations with Darshan from Saturday night till the body was disposed of. After they surrendered, the police seized their mobile phones. During interrogation, they disclosed Darshan's involvement in the murder. The police then checked the tower location and found the actor's phone active near the scene of crime, the sources said. Pavithra had discussed this with her close aide Pawan and asked him not to reveal it to Darshan, fearing that he might harm Renukaswamy. Pawan, however, brought the matter to Darshan's notice after which Renukaswamy was murdered.

Social media accounts of the accused and the victim are being examined by the police. Renukaswamy is alleged to have been messaging her from different accounts when she kept blocking him. MORE: P3

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

IN his first foreign visit after taking oath as prime minister for the third term, Narendra Modi will head to Italy on Thursday to take part in the 50th summit of the Group of Seven (G7) countries.

"India has been invited as an Outreach Country for the G7 Summit which begins on June 14th," foreign secretary Vinay Mohan Kwatra said on Wednesday.

Modi will participate in the Outreach Session along with the other countries invited for this year's G7 Outreach Summit.

The focus points for the Outreach Summit are artificial intelligence, energy, Africa and the Mediterranean. It will be a block agenda item where the G7 and the outreach countries will share their views. This newspaper had reported on May 4 that if re-elected, Modi's first overseas visit as PM would be to Italy.

Kwatra said Modi's participation in the summit would provide an opportunity to follow up on the outcomes of the G20 Summit held under India's presidency last year.

Regarding India's position on Russia's war in Ukraine, expected to dominate discussions during the G7 summit, Kwatra said, "We have always maintained that dialogue and diplomacy is the best option".

During the visit, Modi is likely to hold a bilateral meeting with Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni. "In the meeting, the two prime ministers are expected to review the entire gamut of bilateral ties and give directions for next steps," Kwatra said. Modi is also likely to have bilateral meetings with other leaders, he said.

This year's G7 Summit will be held in the luxury resort of Borgo Egnazia in Italy's Apulia region from June 13 to 15.

Revenue Minister and local MLA Krishna Byre Gowda discusses the Jakkur Lake development project plan with officials, on Wednesday | EXPRESS

JAKKUR LAKE BEAUTIFICATION NEARING COMPLETION

Project likely to be inaugurated in August; Krishna Byre Gowda inspects the Rs 4-crore wetland development work

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

ACTIVISTS fighting for the development of 163-acre Jakkur Lake can now heave a sigh of relief as the Rs 4-crore wetland improvement project is nearing completion and is likely to be inaugurated in August.

Revenue Minister and local MLA Krishna Byre Gowda inspected the project work on Wednesday. He directed the officials to complete the work at the earliest and ensure that only treated water is released into the wetland project area and then into the lake.

According to officials, more than Rs 20 crore has been spent on the lake in the past 15 years. The aim is to help recharge groundwater in areas around the lake.

Lake activist and founder trustee of Jal Poshan Annapurna Kamath, who along with residents of Jakkur, is working towards the development of the water body, said, "Wetland development is one of the key features of the project. It acts as a natural filter and purifies lake water. The earlier model was designed by Dr TV Ramachandra of IISc to purify secondary treated water from the STP. It has been successful. Over the years, the sewage input increased and maintenance of the wetland became a challenging task. To address the two problems, a new design was proposed. The current redesign by Dr Chanakya Hoysala of IISc and S Vishwanath Biome will help treat sewage entering the lake accidentally through the northern inlet. In this design, rainwater and tertiary treated water will bypass the system and sewage from SWD will be treated on the wetland. In addition, the wetland will have flora to support birds. The focus will be on habitat creation and sewage treatment."

"We welcome this initiative by Byre Gowda and BBMP. This is a long-lasting solution to manage sewage entering the lake," Kamath said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TO enhnace public transit efficiency, Mercedes-Benz Research and Development India (MBRDI) on Wednesday announced the launch of Enroute: A Mobility-As-A-Service Challenge.

Aiming to revolutionise public transportation in Bengaluru, the startup innovation challenge in partnership with Villgro and WRI India will leverage Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC) and Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited's (BMRCL) open data resources.

Prof Rajeev Gowda, former MP and former vice-chairman of the Karnataka State Policy and Planning Commission (KSPPC) launched the initiative and emphasised the critical need for a unified transportation platform to enhance the commuting experience in Bengaluru. "Enroute is a revolutionary step for Bengaluru's mobility. The challenge fits in with a lot of the Government of Karnataka initiatives, and this promises to be an initiative that can serve as a model for transit networks across the country," he said.

BMRCL MD Maheshwar Rao said, "A lot of data is available in public transport that is not used to the maximum. If there is anything that we can do to make commuting convenient, we should do it. We believe some interesting solutions can emerge from this challenge."

The challenge invites startups to develop an integrated solution that enables commuters to access real-time updates on public transit schedules, plan their journeys efficiently, and pay for all their tickets through one unified portal. By making transportation more accessible, efficient, and user-friendly, this initiative aims to significantly improve overall mobility in Bengaluru. The top three startups will receive seed funding support and the opportunity to pilot their solution on-ground.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

13TH June : Just thinking about the mysteries of numerology, twelve, the number of zodiac signs, is a magic number in most numerological systems, mainly because the Sun and Moon make twelve complete cycles in one year. In so many myths, the central hero has twelve companions because this makes him seem like the Sun, a glorious, shining beacon of hope!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Today's intense planetary alignment could find you moving towards increased social status and satisfaction. Other people will begin to look to you as the person who can express their hopes and implement their goals. Whether that's a role that you're comfortable with is another matter!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You could not ask for more support from your planets, and this is precisely why you can be confident that home and family matters will work out in your favour in the end. A romantic surprise will lift your morale some time over the next few days - hopefully!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
One of the most important features in your life, aside from moral and legal questions, could be a connection with a foreign country, perhaps a spiritual one. It seems likely that you could be travelling for business, or that some other serious matter will have to be settled.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Money is still an extremely important consideration, if not the most important factor. As from today, you may be able to move forward and start planning for the future, rather than being held back by the past. And, from tomorrow, you may begin to see the results of your labours.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Today's marvellous Moon is at once extremely helpful and very difficult, which means that this is a time of contradictions and paradoxes. Success may bring burdensome responsibilities while failure may release you from unwelcome commitments. Nothing is as it seems!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Listen to your imagination. You may be under a great deal of pressure, but it's from within, from your intuitions, that you will understand both the true nature of your personal commitments and find a way forward. A little quiet contemplation will help.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It looks very much as if children should be taking first place at home. Practical help is required, and self-discipline is vital if you are to maintain peace and harmony. It's necessary that younger relations should be allowed to find their own way forward. That's the bottom line!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
One family member is in trouble, another has never done better. You must be able to distinguish between those who need praise and those who require sympathy and support. Be sensitive and compassionate, and in return you'll receive the help that you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You must take decisions only in terms of long-term interests and security. This is no time to risk everything on some rash impulse or other and, if you are tempted to stage a walk-out, you should think very carefully indeed. It's not just your actions which matter, but their consequences.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
This is undoubtedly the right moment to determine your next cash initiative, but an emotional relationship could stand in the way. You should hold back unless you know you've got it exactly right. Partners must learn to respect your cautious approach - if they don't already, that is!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Moon is forming a pleasing alignment with your sign today, which means that you're at a turning point. Take it one step at a time and make self-discipline, consistency and integrity your major qualities. If all goes well, sincerity and hard work will be rewarded.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Both emotional and financial matters are now bubbling away. But what is truly important is your deep and profound imagination. This is the source of your current hopes, which need to be encouraged, and fears, which need to be reassured. If you're not certain what to do next, look at what more experie-nced people are up to and learn from their example.

Answer: The runner was leading the marathon until she — RAN INTO TROUBLE

Shivamogga police arrested a man for allegedly cultivating marijuana in his arecanut plantation. The accused has been identified as Gurumurthy, a resident of Huttalli village in Thirthahalli taluk. The police raided Gurumurthy's property on Tuesday and seized 14 marijuana plants weighing 9.5 kg worth Rs 2.5 lakh

THEY SHOULD'VE LET HIM GO AFTER WARNING, WHY KILL HIM: WIFE

● Renukaswamy and Sahana were married for a year, she is five months pregnant ● Victim's father wants impartial probe ● He was an introvert, says his friend at a pharmacy where he worked ● Family wants court-monitored investigation ● Massive protest in Chitradurga demanding justice

G SUBHASH CHANDRA @ Chitradurga

NINETY-eight-year-old, bedridden Pramila Devi sits on the bed and waits for her grandson S Renukaswamy to come to her help for addressing her daily needs which includes bathing, eating and also making her laugh. But since Friday afternoon, she has not seen him.

Every time a person enters home, Pramila, who sleeps in the front room, looks at the door eagerly, thinking it could be her grandson. When it is not, her face falls. Though it has been three days since Renukaswamy's death, the family has not told her yet. But by looking at the crowd, she senses something has happened.

Renukaswamy's father, a retired accounts superintendent at KEB, Kashinatha Shivanagowdara, is 78 years old, while his mother Rathnaprabha is 68. Renukaswamy was the sole breadwinner of the family. All the six members of the family — grandmother, father, mother, sister, her daughter and his five-month pregnant wife — depended on his earnings as a store manager at Apollo Pharmacy at IUDP Layout.

The family was expecting a new member with the delivery date of his wife Sahana fixed three months hence. But now everything is dashed with Renukaswamy's murder, in which actor Darshan and his accomplices are allegedly involved and are behind bars.

Sahana questioned, "If my kid after coming to this world asks where her/his father is, what will I do? They could have released my husband after warning him not to send messages. But they murdered my husband brutally. When I saw his body, I had never imagined he would return like this. The last he called was on June 8 afternoon." She said her husband was a quiet and good man and was never involved in issues concerning others. Sahana, who is five months pregnant, said the family wants justice for her husband. "We married a year ago and I am expecting. I am shattered. How can I lead my life now," she asked. "Whether he is an actor (Darshan) or a star, I want justice," she said.

Renukaswamy's father Kashinatha said, "My son went missing on Friday afternoon. But it was only on Monday evening that we got a call from the Kamakshipalya police, saying they wanted to give us information about our son. Only when we visited the Kamakshipalya police station on Tuesday morning did we come to know that he had been murdered." He said, "We later identified the body by looking at his clothes and the face. We collected the body after autopsy and brought it to Chitradurga where we held the last rites in the night." He said, "With his death, my family is out on the streets. Who will take care of us in our last moments? Darshan and his accomplices should have behaved humanely and released him after warning him." He said, "We are requesting the government to hold an impartial probe and ensure justice to my son."

Taj Mohammed, a friend of Renukaswamy at Apollo Pharmacy, said, "Friday was Renukaswamy's weekly off. But he came to the pharmacy and left early. He was an introvert and never spoke anything about his family or personal issues when he was at work. He was on good terms with all the workers."

MP Govind Karjol (left) calls on the family of Renukaswamy in Chitradurga

FAMILY WANTS COURT-MONITORED PROBE

The family of deceased Renukaswamy, who was murdered by Kannada actor Darshan and his accomplices, has urged the state government to hold a court-monitored probe into the murder, so that the investigation will be held in a transparent manner. Speaking to TNIE, uncle of Renukaswamy, 81-year-old Paramanadayya said that they have apprehensions about the transparency of the police investigation as there might be political interference in the present probe and justice will not be delivered. "Demanding a CBI investigation may be too much, hence my sincere request to the government is to conduct a judiciary-monitored investigation. This will satisfy the family also," he added. As the case has involvement of high profile people, the demand for a court-monitored investigation is justified, he said.

'No political pressure, law will take its course'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A day after sandalwood actor Darshan and 12 others were arrested in a murder case, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said the actor should have filed a complaint with the police against the victim for allegedly sending derogatory messages to Pavithra Gowda, an accused in the case. The police would have taken action. "Now, nothing can be done, the law will take its course," he said.

Dr Parameshwara said there is no political pressure to bail out the actor and his associates. All are equal before law. Based on prima facie evidence, police have arrested 13 members, including Darshan. "There is no need to hand over the case to another investigating agency. Police have been given a free hand to investigate and take the case to its logical end. We have learnt that the actor is facing many cases," he said.

He said as per preliminary investigation reports, Renukaswamy, the victim, had posted some lewd remarks against Pavithra on social media. The police would have acted against him if a complaint was filed.

Transfers

Dr Parameshwara said there are guidelines for inter-district police transfers. Based on the guidelines, transfers can be done. For police officers, the duration was one year. This has been changed to two. Transfers could not be made violating the guidelines, he added.

'Decision on banning Darshan only after probe'

ENS @ Bengaluru

PRESIDENT of the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce (KFCC) NM Suresh on Wednesday said a decision on the demand to ban actor Darshan can be taken only after police investigations.

Reacting to a representation submitted by a section of Kannada activists to debar Darshan from the film industry, Suresh said the film chamber is a professional body meant for the producers, distributors and exhibitors. "The issue of Darshan is concerned with the Karnataka Film Artistes' Association. I cannot take the decision alone. Hence, I have already spoken to the officer bearers of KFAA," he said. Condemning the brutal murder of S Renukaswamy, Suresh said nobody can take the law into their hands.

Former KFCC president Sa Ra Govindu condemned the murder. "The incident should not have happened but it has happened, which is not pleasant for the Kannada film industry. I have deep regrets for the same. Now, we have to console the family of the victim. Nobody is above the law. But one thing we all should learn from Dr Rajkumar, Dr Vishnuvardhan and Ambareesh is on how persons in public life should conduct themselves in society," he added.

Black SUV — the crucial evidence in the killing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE CCTV cameras installed at an apartment near Sumanahalli bridge has captured the movement of a black Scorpio vehicle around 3.04 am. Six minutes later, the Scorpio is seen returning with the rear doors open. The police then tracked the movement of the Scorpio and found it entering the shed in Pattanagere after analysing footage recorded in several CCTV cameras.

The police had collected this crucial evidence within 2-3 hours after finding the body. The police had obtained the leads much before the four accused surrendered before them. The two SUVs that were used have been recovered by the police. None of the SUVs are in the name of the actor. The red colour SUV is registered in the name of Vinay, owner of a pub in RR Nagar, while the black colour Scorpio is registered in the name of Pradush. The victim's body was shifted in Scorpio from the shed, where the alleged murder took place, to the stormwater drain near Sumanahalli bridge where the body was disposed of. Liquor bottles are also said to have been found in the seized SUVs. Video footage of the movement of these two SUVs was captured in a CCTV camera near the shed. The vehicles were seen moving around 3.27 am on Sunday.

Number of IPS officers of K'taka cadre in Centre more than before

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

ALMOST a dozen young Indian Police Service (IPS) officers of the Karnataka cadre have gone on Central deputation in the last two years. Barring two Inspectors General of Police (IGP) rank officers — Vipul Kumar of 1999 batch and Praveen Kumar of 2003 batch — the rest all, who have opted for Central deputation are Superintendent of Police (SP) rank officers. Praveen is posted as Joint Director; Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and Vipul has been posted to the Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) a month-and-a half back.

According to sources, Karnataka cadre, which earlier had dismal representation in the Centre now ranks among the highest. "Currently, around15 IPS officers of Karnataka cadre are on Central deputation. This is the highest in the last few decades," said sources on condition of anonymity. Three IPS officers of the 2011 batch - Vinayak Patil is on deputation while his batchmates Isha Pant and Santosh Kumar have been posted to the Intelligence Bureau. From the 2012 batch of IPS officers Ilakkiya Karunagaran was posted as SSP, National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) in February this year. Her batchmates - Nikam Prakash Amrit has been posted to the Bureau of Civil Aviation Security (BCAS), Rahul Kumar Shahapurwad has been appointed as SP in the National Investigation Agency (NIA), and G Radhika has been posted to the National Police Academy (NPA) for a tenure of five years. From the 2013 batch, Divya Sara Thomas is posted at CBI. Her batchmate Harish Pandey and BM Laxmi Prasad, of the 2014 batch of IPS are also on Central deputation. Besides the direct IPS officers, two conferred IPS officers from the state have also gone on Central deputation. "While every young IPS officer would want to stay back in the cadre, Central deputation gives wider and greater exposure to officers. One of the main reasons for 'migration' of SP rank officers to the Centre is because of lack of enough opportunities in the state. The number of SPs has almost doubled because of enmasse intake of conferred IPS officers (from state police service) in 2016 and 2021," added sources.

"Earlier there was a regular intake of three to four conferred IPS officers but because of various reasons, the process was deferred with the result that there are approximately 120 SPs as against the sanctioned strength of around 60. There are not as many posts or infrastructure to accommodate all of them. Many IPS officers are occupying non-IPS posts, which has also had a cascading effect and led to blocking of promotion of junior level officers. Many promoted sub inspectors retire as DSPs," added sources.

According to the service rules, a percentage of cadre officers should be sent on Central deputation but historically few IPS officers from Karnataka cadre have opted for it for various reasons. "This is in fact, a blessing in disguise. There should be more representation of the cadre, which is one of the best, in the Central pool," they added.

CM TAKES STOCK OF LAW & ORDER IN KARNATAKA

Siddu meets Patil, Parameshwara; progress in Gauri Lankesh murder case also discussed

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah held a crucial meeting on Wednesday with Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and Law Minister H K Patil, along with the top brass of the legal and home departments, during which they deliberated on a wide range of issues, especially the state's law and order situation.

The opposition BJP has been attacking the State Government over the recent murders of young women in Hubballi, claiming that the law and order situation in Karnataka has deteriorated since the Congress came to power in the state.

According to informed sources, Wednesday's meeting was called to discuss the law and order situation in the state and chalk out a plan to ensure that crimes against women do not occur in the future. The need to sensitise the police to be responsive to the SOS raised by the women was also discussed.

According to sources, the high-level meeting discussed at length several cases of Karnataka fighting against NGOs, private parties, the people's representatives, some of the religious heads, and the officials pending before the High Court and the Supreme Court. "Steps to be taken to expedite investigations in coordination with the home and law departments and get the cases disposed of have been chalked out. The CM was serious about both departments working in tandem to ensure that the long-pending cases are settled so that it will help with better administration in the government. If the cases are disposed of at the earliest, in some cases, it will save the state's money on legal expenditure," sources added. Some cases are over financial matters, and the disposal of such cases is likely to bring revenue to the government.

The meeting took stock of the progress with regard to the investigation into journalist Gauri Lankesh's murder and the POCSO case against the Murugha Mutt seer.

The meeting did not discuss the SIT probe into former Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna's alleged involvement in the sex scandal or actor Darshan's alleged involvement in the murder of one of his fans, a source clarified.

"The State Government does not want to interfere in the investigation of these cases," sources added.

Cong leaders raise demand for more DCMs again

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah's cabinet colleagues, especially his loyalists, are again raising the issue of creation of more deputy chief minister posts in the government, giving enough ammunition to the opposition BJP to attack the government.

Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna renewed his demand for the creation of three more DCM posts for three leaders from different communities as he felt it will help the party win more seats in the forthcoming elections to local bodies.

"After the Lok Sabha election results, the Congress government in the state has become like a house with a hundred doors. The competition for the posts of CM and DCM in the government is fierce and the infighting within the government is like a fire covered by ash. Dear CM @siddaramaiah, Dear DCM @DKShivakumar, tell us when will the race for your chair stop?, when will the eclipse of Karnataka's development end," state BJP posted on 'X'.

Before the Lok Sabha elections too, Rajanna had raised this issue and said the Congress high command should appoint three more DCMs besides the present DCM DK Shivakumar for the party to win more Lok Sabha seats.

The names of Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and Industries Minister MB Patil were discussed then. Dalit leaders from the party had held dinner meetings with PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi. But AICC bosses, including president Mallikarjun Kharge, had warned Rajanna not to raise the issue of creation and it had died down.

The Siddaramaiah camp is now likely to raise the issue again with Rajanna, 'a rebel', leading from the front. Sources said the high command has taken note of the developments and is likely to issue one more round of warning to Rajanna.

Cabinet may discuss GIM plans for next yr

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah, Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and a team led by Industries Minister MB Patil are planning to hold another edition of the Global Investors Meet (GIM) sometime next year.

Siddaramaiah has told the team that they have to work hard to bring in more investments to Karnataka. The last GIM in 2022 brought in Rs 9.8 lakh crore, and that too at a time when the entire world was reeling under Covid.

The Karnataka cabinet that is meeting on Thursday is expected to discuss issues concerning GIM.

Sources said MB Patil is confident of getting large investments. The state has taken note of the recent GIM in Tamil Nadu, where memorandums of understanding worth Rs 6.6 lakh crore were signed, the sources added.

They said the industries department and Udyog Mitra have held some rounds of discussion and preparatory meetings, but would seek the mandatory administrative approval for GIM.

Sources said Karnataka has to compete with all other states now, unlike in the 1990s when Karnataka was a pampered destination. Between 1999 and 2004, when SM Krishna was chief minister, the state attracted good investment proposals and it was in direct competition with the united Andhra Pradesh.

Now that the architect of Cyberabad, Chandrababu Naidu, is back as chief minister of Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka has to work extra hard to get investments, the sources said.

Industry teams are expected to visit EU, US, Japan, Singapore and other places to attract investments and target industries planning to move out of China.

The cabinet is also expected to take up the Backward Classes Commission and Seventh pay Commission reports.

Didn't urge govt to halt guarantees: Lakshmana

MYSURU: Congress leader and defeated Congress candidate from the Mysuru-Kodagu Lok Sabha constituency, M Lakshmana, clarified that he did not urge the State Government to stop its guarantee schemes. Addressing the media in Mysuru on Wednesday, Lakshmana said that his comments were misrepresented in the media. He explained that he only urged the government to review the guarantee schemes to ensure they reach the needy and not all beneficiaries. Lakshmana expressed his disappointment over the misrepresentation of his statements. "After losing the election, I demanded that the government consider that the guarantees be targeted only at the needy and called for a review. But it has been misrepresented," he said. Lakshmana also criticised the BJP for not making Veerashaiva Lingayat a cabinet minister. Lakshmana said that BJP MP V Somanna was assured of a cabinet post, but no one else from the Veerashaiva Lingayat community was given a chance. Somanna is the Minister of State for Jal Shakti. He further criticised the Leader of the Opposition, R Ashoka, saying that he was unfit to hold the position. "As an opposition leader, he (Ashoka) should be a shadow of the CM. But he has proven that he is unfit by only engaging in hit-and-run statements," Lakshamna said. On the case involving actor Darshan, he said that no influence or pressure was exerted on the police. "This would not have been the situation if BJP or JDS were in power," the Congress leader said. ENS

Kuruburu urges Pralhad Joshi to pass law to make MSP legal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hubballi

THE Federation of State Farmers' Associations has urged Food, Public Distribution and Consumer Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi to play a positive role in enhancing central grants to state governments to procure farm produce under the minimum support price (MSP) scheme and demanded that a law be passed to give the process a legal sanctity.

Talking to reporters on Wednesday, Federation president Kuruburu Shantakumar charged the Central government with meting out injustice to farmers of states under the price support scheme, as over 45 per cent of farm produce is being procured from Punjab, Haryana and other North Indian states and the share of Karnataka in the nation-wide procurement is just 3 per cent.

He said that in other states, procurement centres have been opened at hobli level, but not in Karnataka, and a lot of restrictions are placed to procure agricultural produce. "Because of this, state farmers are facing a lot of hardship and not benefiting from the MSP scheme. The Union government should make the procurement process easy by enacting a law to make MSP legal," he stressed.

Shantakumar, who also heads the State Sugarcane Growers' Association, pointed to the importance of digitisation of sugar industries and the sugarcane sector, in line with the Uttar Pradesh government, which has been doing a transaction of Rs 25,000 crore. Such an initiative will generate more revenue for the government and also assure a fair price for farmers, he said. In Karnataka, since half of the sugar factories in the state are owned by politicians, they are not allowing the government to reform the sector.

Lashing out at sugar mills in the state, he alleged that they owe around Rs 700 crore to sugarcane growers over the last eight months. "If at all the Congress government is concerned about farmers, let the government confiscate such factories and file a criminal case against such owners," he said. He appealed to the Centre to amend NDRF rules against crop damage due to natural disasters and pressed for full compensation.

Siddaramaiah & Co got 80% cut in ST Corpn scam, says Ashoka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mangaluru

The Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly, R Ashoka, on Wednesday reiterated his demand for Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's resignation over the alleged misappropriation of funds in the Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation (KMVSTDC) alleging that "the CM and his company gobbled 80% funds" in the scam.

Speaking to the media in Mangaluru, Ashoka said, "Former minister B Nagendra is innocent as he got only 20%! Those who gobbled 80% are still at large. The misappropriation has occurred in the finance department under the CM's nose. Funds were transferred to benami accounts and the CM's role cannot be ruled out. Funds were transferred to some accounts in Telangana where there is a Congress government," the BJP leader alleged. Further, Ashoka alleged that the CM sought the resignation of Nagendra as he quickly sensed that he will be caught in the alleged irregularity. "We will demand for CM's resignation in the Assembly," Ashoka added.

LoP R Ashoka meets a stabbing victim at a Mangaluru hospital on Wednesday

Ashoka said that the BJP-JDS alliance in Karnataka will continue in the elections to the ZP and TP and BBMP. He said that the Congress is scared by the results of the recent Lok Sabha elections in Karnataka as the BJP has got majority votes in 143 of the 224 Assembly segments. "That means the achievement of one year old Congress government is zero," Ashok added.

MANGALURU STABBING INCIDENT A PRE-PLANNED ONE: LOP

R Ashoka alleged that the Boliyar stabbing incident in which two BJP workers were attacked was a pre-planned one and his party would raise the issue in the upcoming legislature session. Talking to reporters after visiting the two assaulted BJP workers in a private hospital in Mangaluru, Ashoka sought to know from the police why the accused were carrying a weapon with them if it was not a planned attack. He said Karnataka has become a Taliban state ever since the Congress came to power. Contradicting the police's claim that the assaulted BJP workers abused minorities by describing them as Pakistanis, Ashoka challenged the police to release the video to prove their claim.

Keen on cruise tourism, but not casinos: HK Patil

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO improve travel destinations and draw tourists, the State Government is calling for investors to develop tourism sites under the Public Private Partnership (PPP) model.

"Investments are sought for heritage and coastal tourism. The State Government is keen on coastal and cruise tourism, but not casinos," Tourism and Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil said on Wednesday.

'Casinos is not in our culture'

"Casinos is not in our culture. We want to improve the 320-km coast line, introduce water sports, houseboats, backwater tourism, surfing and cruise, but not casinos. It is not socially good. There is no proposal before the government and my department will not support it," Patil said.

He was speaking to media on the sidelines of the announcement of 'Dakshin Bharat Utsav' to be held in Bengaluru's Palace Grounds on June 15 and 16.

The utsav is being organised by the Karnataka Tourism Department and Federation of Karnataka Chamber of Commerce and Industries. It is the first event where all southern states are participating to showcase the tourism potential and draw investors, Patil elaborated. Expression of interest for signing MoUs worth Rs 500 crore have been received and another Rs 500 crore is expected during the utsav from small and medium enterprises, the minister added.

During the utsav, Karnataka will focus on drawing investors to the 'Adopt a Monument' scheme.

Also 18 waterbodies have been listed for improvement including KRS reservoir, Kabini dam, Karanji Lake, Bhadra reservoir, Malaprabha dam, Vani Vilas Sagara and others.

Tourism dept to regulate visitors on lines of TN, e-passes on cards

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

WHILE the state government is working on multiple strategies to increase tourist footfall in the state and increase revenue, the tourism department is contemplating regulating tourism.

The Tamil Nadu government, during the recent summer vacation, had introduced e-passes, which were special permits for tourists to visit hill stations of Ooty and Kodaikanal.

Northeastern states and Bhutan too have introduced e-passes to regulate tourism. With the rush to the Himalayas increasing, the Union tourism ministry is chalking out an adventure tourism policy. Karnataka was also in news recently as tourists had gathered in large numbers at Kumara Parvatha in Chikkamagaluru and long traffic jams were witnessed in Kodagu. A tourism department said this is the right time to take proactive steps and regulate tourism. The existing tourism policy is being revised and this proposal should be included in it. He said the policy is looking at plugging the loopholes and regulating tourists at homestays and resorts. It is also looking at schemes that were floated, but did not generate interest, like village tourism. "The department is looking at ecological, economical and sustainable tourism. We do not want any untoward incidents that will tarnish the image of the state. Having restrictions at some sites, like the forest department is working on, will be a good move," he added.

Tourism Minister HK Patil said the department is working on revising the tourism policy and it will be finalised in two months. So far, no decision on e-passes has been taken, but it is going to be discussed with the officials. If it is required, it can be done, he added.

RAHUL YET TO DECIDE WHICH SEAT TO VACATE

Says bond with Wayanad goes beyond polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kalpetta

CHOOSING not to break the suspense over which seat he will vacate, Rahul Gandhi, elected from both Wayanad and Rae Bareli, on Wednesday said he will take a call only after listening to the people of both constituencies. However, the state Congress leadership gave enough indication that he may vacate Wayanad with KPCC president K Sudhakaran saying voters there are sad that Rahul is leaving them.

Addressing a gathering at Malappuram district's Edavanna, which falls under Wayanad constituency, Rahul said unlike Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is guided by the paramatma, he takes decision by himself. "Modi said he is not biological and is instructed by paramatma. I am an ordinary human being and for me the people are the Paramatma. I act as instructed by the people. So, I have to listen to what the people of Wayanad and Rae Bareli say," he said.

In his speech at Kalpetta, Rahul took a jibe at the BJP and Modi for attacking the Constitution by espousing the 'one language, one nation' idea during the election campaign. "BJP leaders thought just because they had power, ED, CBI, Income Tax, they could dictate to the people. The Election Commission designed the polling dates to favour the PM. But people of Ayodhya and Varanasi in Uttar Pradesh and the entire nation showed that they do not support hatred. The people showed that our different languages, cultures, religions should be protected," he said.

He thanked voters, including LDF supporters, in Wayanad. "When I was interrogated by ED officials for 55 hours, BJP gave 2-year jail sentence and filed over 20 cases against me, the people of Wayanad supported me throughout. Our bond goes beyond the election and you treated me like a family member. I will remember it all my life," Rahul said.

"The Congress party and I will fulfil the commitments on several issues concerning Wayanad such as night-travel ban, medical college hospital and wild animal attacks. Many are speculating over whether I would choose Wayanad or Rae Bareli. Right now, everybody knows the answer, except me who should make the decision. I promise whatever decision I take will benefit both Wayanad and Rae Bareli," he said in Kalpetta.

Shah's on-stage talk with Tamilisai causes ripples

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah's conversation on stage with former governor of Telangana Tamilisai Soundararajan, which appeared as if the former is conveying something firmly to the latter, at the swearing-in ceremony of Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Wednesday caused ripples in political circles and social media.

As per the live telecast of the ceremony, Shah called Tamilisai back as she was about to cross him after wishing him and former Vice President Venkaiah Naidu, who was seated adjacent to Shah. The union home minister later had a terse exchange, in which hand gestures and facial expression gave an impression that he was instructing her something serious.

The short clip immediately went viral on social media in the backdrop of Tamilisai recently striking a discordant note with party's state president K Annamalai regarding the break up from AIADMK alliance ahead of Lok Sabha elections, paving way for speculation that Shah was reprimanding her for her comments. Many on social media reacted angrily as to how a woman leader and a former governor from Tamil Nadu could be treated in such a disrespectful manner on a public platform. Many supporters of Annamalai within the party said Tamilisai violated the party's rule and expressed views in public and thus a senior leader warned her. A few asked whether Shah could do this to leaders like Vasundara Raje even if they had differences.

On return from the swearing-in ceremony, Tamilisai, however, declined to talk to the reporters who were expecting that she would clarify what had transpired. With a smiling face and folded hands, she got into her car and moved.

A BJP sympathiser, with significant following on Twitter, said such a 'warning' from Shah could have been avoided. Kalyan Raman, a functionary of the BJP's state intellectual cell, who has been critical of Annamalai's leadership after the election alleged the exchange between Shah and Tamilisai was being interpreted as 'admonishment' by 'paid' supporters of Annamalai while the truth was that no one except the two knew what was discussed.

Will address your woes, new Odisha CM tells people

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

THE new BJP government is for the poor, assured Odisha Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi, while meeting people from different walks of life, before taking oath in the state capital on Wednesday.

Majhi asserted that the new BJP government will fulfil all the promises made in its election manifesto for which a 100-day road map is being prepared. In the morning, the CM, along with his deputies KV Singh Deo and Pravati Parida, paid floral tributes to the sons of the soil at various places in the city and went on to meet people in the localities to inquire about their problems.

At Maitri Vihar in Chandrasekharpur, Majhi was given a traditional welcome by women of the Santhali tribe. The CM garlanded the statue of Birsa Munda there. He then went to the house of Santhali slum-dweller Sita Hembram in the area and interacted with her family. Sita's son Ramesh informed the new CM about the drainage, land patta and employment problems of slum dwellers.

"These tribal brothers and sisters have been staying on government land for many years, but they do not have land pattas yet. The basic amenities are missing and employment is a concern. We will look into addressing their problems," Majhi said, directing local BJP leader Priyadarshi Mishra to inquire into the issues.

At Vani Vihar square, the CM garlanded the statue of Fakir Mohan Senapati at Utkal University and met auto-rickshaw drivers. He also met a woman labourer, who sought work for herself and her husband, besides education for her three children.

Later at Parivahan Bhawan, Majhi met Bijay Kumar Das, a peon working in the Transport department, who sought better pay. "I have 3.5 years of service left but I am still getting Rs 20,000 salary which is not enough to sustain my family. Since this is a new government, I hope it will look into our condition," he told the CM. Majhi assured him that his government will work for the poor.

Speaking to the media, Majhi said the last government, despite being in power for 24 years, could not ensure a basic living standard for the poor. "But now that the double-engine government is here, we will work for the all-round development of people," he said.

YSRC to give issue-based support to ruling NDA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Vijayawada

ASSERTING that the YSRC will be extending issue-based support to the NDA in passing of Bills, party Rajya Sabha MP V Vijayasai Reddy on Wednesday said they are as strong as the TDP in the Parliament, even as they have lost power in Andhra Pradesh.

Speaking to reporters in New Delhi to highlight the spree of targeted attacks on the YSRC cadre in the state after the TDP came to power, Vijayasai said, "The TDP has got 16 MPs (in Lok Sabha), whereas the YSRC has got 15. There is only difference of one. We have 11 in Rajya Sabha and four in Lok Sabha, while the TDP has 16 in Lok Sabha only. BJP, though a part of NDA, is completely dependent on TDP, and one should remember that they are dependent on YSRC in Rajya Sabha and they need our support to pass the Bills. They (BJP) are equally dependent on YSRC and TDP."

Vijayasai was replying to questions on support of YSRC to the NDA on various issues, including Uniform Civil Code. "It is the policy of the YSRC to support the Centre only when the interest of the country or state are involved," he said, adding that wherever and whenever the state is benefitted, support would be extended.

The MP was quick to add that it cannot be considered as a support to the BJP or any other political party. "The YSRC is a patriotic party and we have to protect the interest in state and the country. Any issue having a bearing on the state and country will be supported by the YSRC," he said.

FOREST, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre on Wednesday directed officials from the environment department and Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB) to prepare a policy on the scientific disposal of medical and hazardous waste.

At a review meeting with the officials, he pointed out that there were many complaints from citizens on waste management and its disposal, and also medical waste generated from nursing homes and dispensaries. Medical waste generated at home too is being disposed of as dry waste, he added.

He warned officials to ensure transparency in the Board. He said all files that come for approval should be thoroughly analysed and cleared within the set time frame. He noted that 769 applications were pending before the Board. Officials will be held responsible and stern action will be taken if files are not cleared on time. The certificate for approval should be issued within three days of clearing the file, he said.

He questioned officials over some sewage treatment plants (STPs) not functioning, and directed them to ensure that STPs are functioning in full capacity.

IN a bid to put an end to the increasing rackets of fake doctors in Karnataka, the government has decided to take strict legal action, said Minister for Medical Education and Skill Development Dr Sharanprakash Patil.

He was speaking after inaugurating the World Homeopathy Day and Symposium held at Dr BR Ambedkar Bhavan organised by the Karnataka Private Homeopathic Medical Colleges Management Association on Wednesday.

In recent times, the menace of fake doctors has increased. Those who have not completed any medical course have set up clinics and are providing treatment to people. We have received many complaints about the functioning of fake doctors, Dr Patil said.

Some are taking advantage of gullible people, especially those in the rural areas and giving them fake treatment. Despite knowing that it is illegal, some people continue to provide fake treatment. Our government is firm to put an end to the fake doctors and their fake treatment, Dr Patil said. He called upon people to share details with the government about the functioning of fake clinics and fake doctors so that action can be taken.

When the members requested to include a homeopath as a syndicate member in the Rajiv Gandhi Health University, Dr Patil responded positively.

Minor girl ropes in two friends to rob own house

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE police probing a house break-in at Parappana Agrahara found that three minors, including a girl, were involved.

The girl allegedly roped in her two friends and hatched a plan to burgle her house. The girl had misused her grandmother's ATM card because her family used to scold her. In just one week, Bengaluru police nabbed nine accused, including three minors and two women, in separate cases and recovered 785 gm of gold ornaments worth over Rs 51 lakh and four two-wheelers worth over Rs 3 lakh.

NUMBER OF ACCUSED IN MURDER CASE TOUCHES 17

THE police gathered enough evidence before getting to the actor as they knew his political connections and also his huge fan base, the sources added.

The police had examined the CCTV footage at Sattva Anugraha apartment complex near Sumanahalli bridge and tracked the movement of a Scorpio SUV. After the accused surrendered, the police told them about the CCTV footage when they are said to have revealed the names of Darshan, his close acquaintance Pavithra Gowda and others. The police are verifying the antecedents of Deepak. The sources said four more people were involved in the case. With this, the number of accused in the case has gone up to 17. Of them, 13 have been arrested. The four accused have been identified as Jagadish alias Jagga, Anu, Ravi and Raju, who are yet to be arrested.

On Wednesday, the police resorted to a mild lathicharge to disperse Darshan's fans after they raised slogans in his support in front of Annapoorneshwari Nagar police station. Darshan did not sleep in the lockup last night and looked worried. He was on juice the whole of Tuesday and is said to have had idlis on Wednesday morning.

The police took Darshan, Pavithra and other accused to the shed, where the victim was murdered, for a spot mahazar.

City police commissioner B Dayananda visited the police station and reviewed the investigations conducted so far.

Did Darshan give money to victim to go home?

After Renukaswamy was brought to the shed, Darshan and Pavithra allegedly went there and the latter allegedly hit him with her footwear. Darshan warned Renukaswamy not to send any messages to Pavithra and reportedly gave him money to return to Chitradurga. After Darshan and Pavithra left the shed, the other accused allegedly continued to torture Renukaswamy. He died after one of the accused allegedly kicked his private parts. Darshan, who was informed about the death of Renukaswamy by his associates, reportedly lost his cool and assaulted Pavithra, blaming her for the whole incident. Because of this, Pavithra was admitted to a private hospital and discharged on Monday. Further investigations are on.

GOVT CONTINUITY SPURS MARKETS, BUT INFLATION, GROWTH WILL BE KEY

AFTER riding a roller-coaster for a week, the Indian stock market seems to have found a firm footing. When the BJP's campaign ended up way below the much-touted '400 paar' target, forcing the party to quickly sew up a coalition government, the stock indices went on a downward spiral. The grandstanding by top ministers that the markets would soar on June 4 ended with a whimper. The opposition parties smelled a scam and blamed the government for pumping up the market and leaving investors in a lurch. Amid reports of coalition partners vying for plum portfolios, the BJP steadfastly held on to the continuity mantra. As the party retained key portfolios such as finance, commerce and defence, and handed their reins to the same old faces, the markets put aside the worries typically linked to coalition governments.

Stability, probably the most comforting factor for stock markets, spurred the indices to a new peak. Public sector, defence and rail stocks, which have been performing much better than the indices over the last couple of years, responded positively in the few trading sessions post-government formation as brokerages gave them a thumbs-up. Stock analysts are exuding confidence that the ministers will hit the ground running without disturbing the status quo, and continue with their reform agenda without any tinkering. Many believe that the first few months of the Modi 3.0 government will be crucial for several sectors, as they are likely to see a reiteration of the existing policy framework as well as new proposals. Hopefully, increased capital allocation from the government will help sectors such as manufacturing, power, infrastructure, rail and capital goods.

The market is now eagerly awaiting the 100-day action plan. The government has been drawing up an agenda in line with proposals announced ahead of the elections as well as the Viksit Bharat 2047 goals. The market is waiting to analyse how the agenda would impact a number of sectors. The stock indices had rallied 9.8 percent in the first 100 days of the 2014 government and declined 6.7 percent during the same period of 2019. Whatever be the change this time, a gradual reduction in retail inflation and faster growth will remain the two most important triggers for the markets in the longer run.

RAZE ILLICIT STRUCTURES, PROTECT VARKALA CLIFF

THE view of Arabian Sea from the Varkala cliff is quite breathtaking. The cliff, a unique geological feature on the otherwise flat Kerala coast, is one of the most visited tourist destinations in the state. In 2014, the Geological Survey of India (GSI) named the 6.4-km promontory a national geological monument. Formed around 2.58 million years ago, the natural formation was in the process of being turned into the first ever geological park in the country.

But something unprecedented happened to it recently. A portion of the cliff was demolished by the district authorities after heavy rains had inflicted substantial damage to it, making it hazardous. Several holes had appeared on the cliff, triggering panic among locals. The district collector, invoking sections 26, 30 and 34 of the Disaster Management Act of 2005, knocked down some portions of the cliff as it was at the risk of collapsing. The district administration had earlier directed the police to ban four-wheelers on the cliff. But that did not stop it from further caving in, which forced the authorities to take the drastic decision to demolish a section. The move has triggered widespread outrage among environmental activists. The GSI has stepped in, too, sending a team for inspection. Conservationists allege that the authorities are not looking for the real reasons behind the cliff's disintegration. They point to the slew of illegal constructions that have come up on the cliff as tourism has surged. They also allege that some structures—the bali mandapam and toilet blocks—were constructed by government agencies themselves after demolishing a part of the cliff.

Even with a portion demolished, the cliff is still a geographic treasure and it must be preserved at all costs. What was the administration doing while all these illegal structures came up is indeed a question that must be answered. It is important to reduce the weight that has been mounted on the promontory over time. While the authorities must clear all illegal constructions at the earliest, the officials who preferred to look the other way when these were coming up must be taken to task, too. Equally important is a ban on further constructions on the cliff. Without the cliff, Varkala beach will lose its biggest attraction—and that should not be allowed to happen.

QUICK TAKE

CLOSING THE PROTECTION GAP

SOME 46,000 women in Rajasthan, Gujarat and Maharashtra were paid a part of their daily wages in May when the temperature crossed 40°C. The novel insurance scheme, designed by the non-profits SEWA and Climate Resilience for All, combines insurance payouts and direct cash assistance. The total payout of ₹2.8 crore did not amount to much per person, but it allowed most of them to avoid working under gruelling heat. Parametric insurance, which is triggered when some metrics such as a temperature are clocked, can guard the most vulnerable from climate's vagaries. As weather-related losses multiply, we hope to see more such schemes to close the protection gap.

Trump retains the support of his base even after conviction, though it's not enough to win him the US presidency. Meanwhile, Biden is trying to energise his own

REALIGNMENTS IN THE BATTLE FOR THE WHITE HOUSE

K P NAYAR

Strategic Analyst

CALL it chance, fate or circumstance, Donald Trump had all three in his favour at the disreputable moment when he became the first president of the United States to be convicted of a crime. A 34-times convicted felon! The precise moment of Trump's "guilty" verdict is lost to America's electors who must decide by November if they are ready to make a criminal—and possibly a prisoner—their next president. That historic moment is lost to the world too.

No public record exists of how Trump reacted to the verdict of 12 New York jurors who pronounced him culpable of felonies in their state. There was a veritable army of reporters who have been covering the former president's trial for seven weeks. In fact, there were too many of them to fit into the Manhattan courtroom. The overflow of reporters had to be accommodated in an adjoining room with a closed-circuit video feed of the trial. However, at the exact moment Trump was pronounced "guilty" on the first of the 34 counts against him, the video feed lost its signal. Reporters who would have captured that moment on their mobile phones and cameras were frustrated and left to stare at blank screens. The few members of the press for whom there was place in the trial room were seated behind the defendant and his team of lawyers. So, they too could not see how Trump reacted to the first "guilty" verdict. By the time the video feed for reporters resumed, Trump had regained his composure, if indeed he had lost it at all. We will never know.

Trump is a rich man in his own right. He amassed power and influence over time as a public figure, culminating in being president of the most formidable nation in the world. Was there any misfeasance in the way the potentially historic video feed was interrupted at its most critical minutes? No one knows. But it suits Trump that American voters will never witness that moment. It could have influenced the November election outcome to some extent by way of impressions on voters. The court will have its own record of it, but that is not for the public to see. So, it will remain a mystery forever.

Trump's unfavourable ratings among Americans who plan to vote in the presidential election have increased since his guilty verdict. In the 10 opinion polls that were conducted almost a week after the verdict, Trump received 50 percent approval only in one poll, according to a detailed listing of those polls by Real Clear Politics (RCP), a respected election website which minutely tracks such polls. In some of these polls, voters' disapproval of Trump stood between 53 and 59 percent. In RCP's average of these 10 polls, the decline in support for Trump between the jurors' unanimous decision on the case and a week afterwards was 11.2 percent.

SOURAV ROY

Overall, Trump's base remains with him. Even if he is imprisoned, this is unlikely to change. But that support, constantly around 38 percent, is not enough to get him into the White House in January—unless his rival Joe Biden's supporters choose to abstain in large numbers in swing states and in Democratic-leaning regions. Such a possibility explains the ongoing verbal somersaults in New York by President Biden's Ambassador to the United Nations, Linda Thomas-Greenfield, in the run-up to, during the debate and after the adoption of a UN Security Council resolution on a ceasefire in Gaza. The US ambassador was a career diplomat who has been called back from retirement by Biden and is now a political appointee. Her real targets in promoting the ceasefire proposal and the UN resolution are liberal voters in the US. Biden is desperately trying to convince a sizeable pro-Palestinian domestic opinion that he is not a closet Zionist.

Meanwhile, in the Kremlin, President Vladimir Putin appears to have concluded that Trump is on course to be the next US president. He was the only foreign leader to criticise the Manhattan court verdict against Trump. Putin's spokesperson, Dmitry Peskov, said a day after the verdict that the Trump trial amounted to "attempts by the current authorities to eliminate political rivals by any means". At one point in the Trump saga when the number of charges against him in various criminal cases crossed the milestone of 90, Putin had said that those cases were "the persecution of a political rival for political reasons".

In the 2016 election, which brought Trump to power, Russia was accused of having manipulated the poll process to the advantage of the successful, newbie Republican candidate. The Trump campaign maintained allegedly illegal contacts with the Russian state, including with the then Russian Ambassador in Washington, Sergey Kislyak. Those secret contacts took a heavy toll on the Trump presidency when they tumbled out of the closet. Among their major political casualties was Trump's first National Security Adviser, General Michael Flynn, who lasted just 22 days. He was forced to resign for having lied about his conversations with Kislyak. Trump was never personally exonerated on the issue of collusion with the Russians. The legal conclusion was that there was simply not enough evidence to pursue any charges against the 45th president.

A week after the pro-Trump pronouncements following the former president's conviction, Putin appeared to walk back on some of his assertions. His motive in doing so was probably to ensure that Trump's apparent advantages in the ongoing presidential campaign are not damaged by impressions of support from the Kremlin. In a conversation with foreign editors at the St Petersburg International Economic Forum, Putin did some damage control: "We have never had any special ties with Mr Trump. The fact remains that as president he started imposing massive sanctions on Russia." He said nothing will change in Russia-US relations after the November elections.

But he made an important observation about what it will be like under a presumptive Trump presidency: "They are interested in the greatness of the US, which is fighting not for Ukraine and the Ukrainian people, but for its own greatness." Make America Great Again or MAGA is still Trump's clarion call. Such empty posturing suits Putin. And it suits Trump, of course, should he become president again.

THE BJP'S MISTAKE OF MISREADING BENGAL

SHIKHA MUKERJEE

Senior journalist based in Kolkata

DISCRIMINATION by the Centre against West Bengal is what even the Trinamool Congress sees in the new Narendra Modi-headed NDA government, because it has failed to give the state the respect it believes is due. Of the two members of parliament from the state inducted into the 71-member central team, neither made it as a senior. Plus, there are only two ministers in 2024, whereas in 2019 there were four.

The theme of discrimination against the state—evident in the lowering of West Bengal's status from top priority for the BJP to a terrain of disappointment, manifest in the fact that there is no senior minister in the new Modi cabinet from the state—is just one of the many ways in which the strategy against Mamata Banerjee failed so spectacularly in the 2024 Lok Sabha election.

The one idea that is deeply ingrained in the hypersensitive Bengali psyche is the belief that the Centre, as in the government in New Delhi, is biased and works actively to deprive the state of many things, including a bigger share in power and a legitimate share of the pie of benefits that ought to flow into West Bengal. The belief has nothing to do with party politics; the Centre's injustice vis-a-vis Bengal pervades the discourse even within the BJP, where a deep cleavage is now apparent between the old timers and the new imports.

That is the way the cookie crumbled.

Pitted against a vastly more experienced warrior who was fully aware of the terrain she was fighting on and the idiosyncrasies of the population, Modi gifted the election to Mamata Banerjee by rescuing her from the effects of mounting anti-incumbency as each new corruption scandal was uncovered. The formula of a double-engine sarkar's guarantee of development, peace and better governance as well as the protection of Hindus in danger from an expanding Muslim population—used by the Trinamool Congress as a vote bank to allegedly unleash a "vote jihad"—failed. The Modi campaign walked into the trap that Mamata Banerjee had primed and popularised through her mammoth Brigade Parade Ground rally after the election was announced. Her slogan was simple—it was a call to the touchy Bengalis to dismiss anti-Bengal forces, "Banglar garjan, Bangla birodhider bisorjon (Bengal's roar is the immersion of anti-Bengali forces)."

For voters, it was a confrontation between two sets of guarantees in West Bengal. There was Modi's guarantee of identifying and evicting illegal Muslim settlers and giving citizenship to Hindu victims of Muslim persecution. In the Bongaon constituency, Santanu Thakur—who took oath as a junior minister for the second time—the Citizenship (Amendment) Act worked as a talisman. In most of the 16-18 Lok Sabha constituencies where Muslims are a sizeable and decisive section of voters, it did not.

PTI

> In the rift between old-timers and new imports in BJP's Bengal unit, it was clear the strategists who designed the Modi-versus-Mamata faceoff did not understand that Hindu-Muslim division does not work in the state. CAA as an issue may have worked in only one constituency

Most Hindus reckoned they were better off with Didi. The lack of trust among women voters for Modi's guarantees—evident in one reaction that pitted the victims of sexual violence in Sandeshkhali against the experience of "gold medallist women wrestlers"—was a widely held view. It became clear after Modi's icon of nari shakti and the party's candidate from Basirhat, Rekha Patra, not only lost, but lost in the Sandeshkhali segment of the Lok Sabha constituency too.

On their own, the issues that Modi selected to attack Mamata Banerjee had merit. Corruption, illegal state residents mostly from Bangladesh, Trinamool's local strongmen and their overbearing ways have all contributed to the buildup of disappointments and grievances against the ruling party and the capacity of Mamata Banerjee to tackle these problems that many feel were allowed a free run because she did not nip them in the bud. But in the opinion of the voter, neither Modi nor the BJP were the answer to their prayers.

If there can be a formula of what would make a predominantly Hindu population that has undergone the experience of large-scale, unspeakable violence, dismemberment of their homeland through Partition an ideal group for the Hindu majoritarian politics of the BJP, then it ought to be the voters in West Bengal. The logic of numbers too points in the same direction, since Muslims comprise about 30 percent of the population, three districts are Muslim-majority, and 16-18 Lok Sabha constituencies have significant Muslim voters. The border with Bangladesh is porous and there is a lot of cross-border traffic, legal and illegal. The logic is, however, defeated by sentiment and a political consensus that regardless of how shrill the rhetoric about Muslim appeasement and fault lines, Bengalis will not allow themselves to be divided on the basis of religious identities.

The pity is local bred-in-the-bone BJP leaders in West Bengal know that the politics Hindu-Muslim division does not work with voters; the strategists who designed the Modi-versus-Mamata faceoff did not.

By 'gifting' Mamata Banerjee 29 parliamentary seats out of the total of the state's 42, the new Modi-led NDA regime is already serving as a dart board for a vengeful Didi. As leader of the third largest party in opposition, she is relishing needling Modi on an almost-daily basis. Sometimes she prophesies that the new NDA government could last one day, other times she says it will last a short while. Every dart is aimed at inflicting humiliation on a target that over-ambitiously believed it could unseat her.

Dynastic politics

Now that the BJP is working closely with the TDP led by Chandrababu Naidu, Narendra Modi and his supporters can no longer talk about dynastic politics. The Union cabinet has more than half a dozen ministers representing various dynasties.

Pitch imperfect

Cricket lovers are happy that the US finally opened its doors to the international sport. But the use of drop-in pitches, especially when they are not fully cured, may increase the chances of batters getting injured. It also contributes to lower scores. Such pitches also deprive the T20 World Cup matches of the entertainment they would have otherwise provided.

Unified progress?

It is unfortunate that the campaign slogan used by the prime minister, 'Sabka saath, sabka vikaas', has not only been a disappointment to the Muslim community, but also been proved wrong. All 71 ministers who have been appointed to the council in the new government are non-Muslims. One wonders if he really believes in progress for all.

BJP likely to gain as Cong tally down in Upper House

With 2 Cong MPs elected to LS, party's strength comes down to 26

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

EVEN as the Congress managed to nearly double its 2019 tally of 52 seats in the Lok Sabha to 100, it has seen a fall in its numbers in Rajya Sabha after two of its members won the recently concluded general elections.

From 28, the Congress is now reduced to 26 MPs in the Upper House. However, the BJP-led NDA is set to increase its numbers in the Rajya Sabha as it will gain from the 10 vacancies that came up after the polls.

Even as the Congress is vying for the post of Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the Lok Sabha, it has barely managed to keep the position of LoP in Rajya Sabha, held currently by Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge. While Congress members KC Venugopal and Deepender Hooda resigned from Rajya Sabha to contest the Lok Sabha polls, both had two more years to complete their RS terms.

According to rules, to get formal recognition in either Upper or Lower House, the concerned party must have at least 10% of the total strength of the House. A single party has to meet the 10% seat criterion. The minimum requirement for any party to hold the Leader of the Opposition post needs to have at least 25 members. However, former Lok Sabha secretary general PDT Achary says those rules are no longer valid.

The majority mark in the 245-member Rajya Sabha is 123. However, five seats are vacant: four in Jammu and Kashmir, which has been under the President's Rule, and one in the nominated member category. Thus, the strength of the House is reduced to 240 and the majority mark to 121.

According to the latest position, with 90 members, the BJP is the single largest party. While Congress is in second place with 26 seats, Trinamool Congress is at 13 and YSR Congress at 11.

A total of 10 vacancies were created in Rajya Sabha after the just concluded Lok Sabha elections including two each from Assam, Bihar and Maharashtra and one each from Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Haryana and Tripura. While seven of these MPs are from the BJP, two are from the Congress and one from the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD). While the BJP will retain all the seven seats, it also has the numbers in the Haryana and Rajasthan assemblies to win the two seats. Though the Opposition INDIA alliance is in a formidable position in Lok Sabha, NDA gaining majority in Rajya Sabha will put the opposition in a tough wicket.

BJP's Piyush Goyal, Biplab Kumar Deb, Jyotiraditya Scindia, Vivek Thakur, Sarbananda Sonowal, Kamakhya Prasad Tasa and Udayanraje Bhonsale and RJD's Misa Bharati are the other members who vacated the Upper House.

Number-crunching

According to rules, to get formal recognition in either Upper or Lower House, the party concerned must have at least 10% of the total strength of the House. A single party has to meet the 10% seat criterion. The minimum requirement for any party to hold the Leader of the Opposition post needs to have at least 25 MPs. However, former LS secretary general PDT Achary said those rules are no longer valid. The majority mark in the 245-member Rajya Sabha is 123, but five seats are vacant. Thus, the strength of the House is reduced to 240 and the majority mark to 121.

House session from June 24-July 3

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

THE first session of the 18th Lok Sabha is scheduled to begin from June 24 and end on July 4. All eyes are on the crucial election of Lok Sabha Speaker after the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) lost the majority, though the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) crossed the 272-mark required to form the government.

The first three days will see newly elected members taking oath and the election of the new Speaker.

President Droupadi Murmu will address a joint sitting of both the Houses on June 27 and is likely to outline the new government's roadmap for the next five years.

Announcing the dates of the new Parliament session, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju said, "First Session of 18th Lok Sabha is being summoned from 24.6.24 to 3.7.24 for oath (or) affirmation of newly-elected members, election of Speaker, President's address and discussion thereon."

He added that the 264th session of the Rajya Sabha will commence on June 27 and conclude on July 3.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to introduce his council of ministers to Parliament after the President's address on June 27.

The debate on the Motion of Thanks on the President's address may witness stormy scenes as a formidable Opposition is expected to corner the NDA government on various issues.

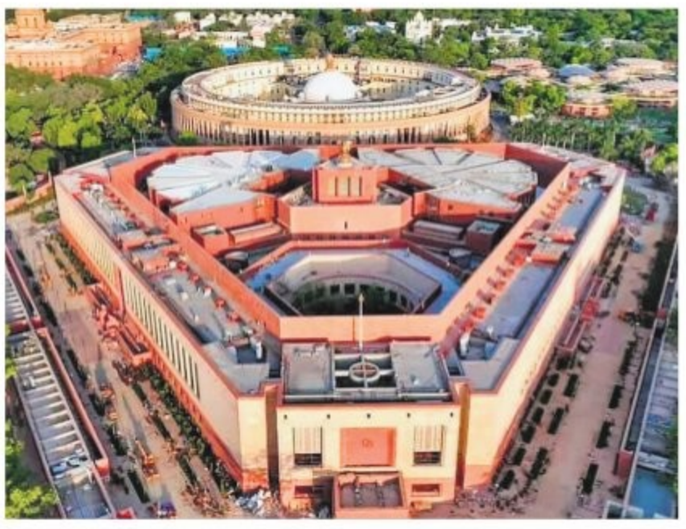
The Prime Minister will respond to the debate on the Motion of Thanks on the President's address in both the Houses of Parliament. While the BJP-led NDA has 293 members in the Lower House, the Opposition INDIA bloc has now increased its tally to 237 after three independent MPs extended support to the Congress.

Buoyed by the impressive show in the Lok Sabha elections, the Opposition is likely to raise issues such as the alleged irregularities in NEET exam results, the exit poll stock market scam, unemployment and inflation in the opening session.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi had assured students that he will raise the issue of the irregularities in NEET results in Parliament. A senior Opposition leader told this newspaper that the first test of strength of the new government will be the election to the Speaker post.

Considering the crucial role of Speaker, the BJP may keep the post for the party, said sources. Outgoing Speaker Om Birla and Andhra Pradesh BJP chief D Purandeswari are the frontrunners for the post, according to a source.

As per the Constitution, the Speaker's post falls vacant just before the new Lok Sabha meets for the first time. A pro-tem Speaker appointed by the President administers the oath of office to the new MPs. Subsequently, a Lok Sabha Speaker is elected by a simple majority. While there is no specific criteria to be elected as a Lok Sabha Speaker, an understanding of the Constitution and parliamentary rules is an advantage. In the last two Lok Sabhas, in which the BJP enjoyed a majority, Sumitra Mahajan and Om Birla were the Speakers.



HOUSE HEADED FOR A STORMY START

President Droupadi Murmu will address a joint sitting of both the Houses on June 27 and is likely to outline the new government's roadmap for the next five years. Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to introduce his council of ministers to Parliament after the President's address. The debate on the Motion of Thanks on the President's address may witness stormy scenes as a formidable Opposition is expected to corner the NDA government on a host of issues.

I&B cracks the whip, asks pvt news channels not to live-stream anti-terror ops

PARVEZ SULTAN @New Delhi

THE information and broadcasting (I&B) ministry on Wednesday cautioned private news channels against live telecast of anti-terrorist operations by the security forces.

The ministry issued the advisory in view of the "extensive TV coverage" by some news channels of two counter-terrorism operations in Kathua and Doda.

"Such telecast is in violation of Cable Television Networks (Amendment) Rules, 2021 and liable for action thereunder. Therefore, all TV channels are advised not to telecast live coverage of anti-terrorist operations by the security forces in the interest of national security and to safeguard innocent lives. Media coverage may be restricted to periodic briefing by an officer designated by the appropriate Government till the operation concludes," it said.

The ministry said that it had already issued advisories to all TV channels in the past.

"Rule 6(1)(p) states that no programme should be carried in the cable service which contains live coverage of any anti-terrorist operation by security forces," the advisory from the ministry clarified.

A CRPF jawan was killed and six security personnel were injured in two overnight encounters with terrorists in Kathua and Doda districts of Jammu. In Doda, five troopers of Rashtriya Rifles and a special police officer were injured when terrorists attacked a joint check post in the upper reaches of Chattergalla on the Bhaderwah-Pathankot road. CRPF jawan Kabir Dass was critically injured in a firing by a terrorist holed up in Kathua district's Saida Sukhal village at around 3 am on Wednesday, officials said. He was shifted to a hospital where he succumbed to injuries.

What rules stipulate

The I&B ministry said it had already issued advisories to all television channels in the past to adhere to the rules. "Rule 6(1)(p) states that no programme should be carried in the cable service which contains live coverage of any anti-terrorist operation by security forces, wherein media coverage shall be restricted to periodic briefing by an officer designated by the appropriate government, till such operation concludes," the advisory from the ministry clarified.

WHO confirms human case of H9N2 strain of bird flu in India

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

A four-year-old boy in West Bengal was infected by the H9N2 strain of bird flu virus.

The World Health Organisation (WHO) has confirmed it as the first human case of bird flu in India on Tuesday. This is the second case of H9N2 or bird flu in India since 2019.

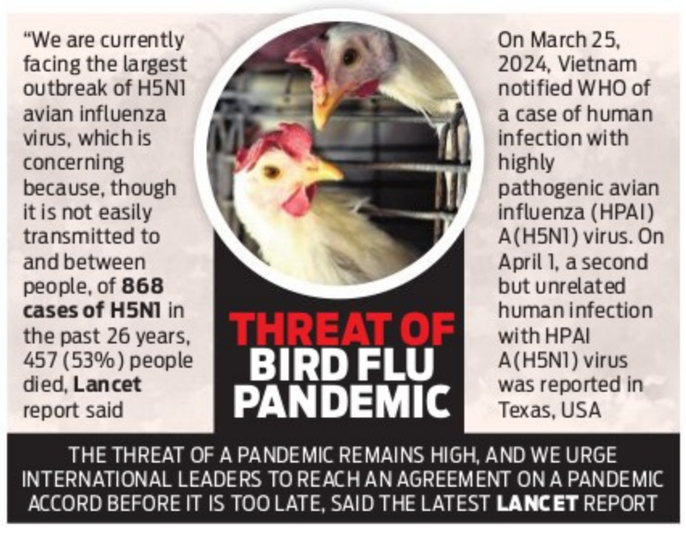
The child was admitted to the pediatric intensive care unit of a local hospital due to severe persistant respiratory issues, high fever, and abdominal cramps in February and was discharged three months later after treatment, the WHO said.

The child had exposure to poultry at home and surroundings, and there were no known persons with symptoms of respiratory illness among his family and other contacts.

The patient tested positive for influenza B and adenovirus at the Virus Research and Diagnostic Laboratory at a local government hospital in February.

On March 3, with recurrence of severe respiratory distress, he was referred to another government hospital, where he was admitted to the pediatric ICU and intubated.

Two days later, a nasopharyngeal swab was sent to the Kolkata Virus Research and Diagnostic Laboratory, which tested positive for influenza A (not sub-typed) and rhinovirus.



The same sample was sent to the National Influenza Centre at the National Institute of Virology in Pune for sub-typing.

On April 26, the sample was sub-typed as influenza A (H9N2) through a real-time polymerase chain reaction.

On May 1, the child was discharged from the hospital with oxygen support. Information on the vaccination status and details of antiviral treatment were not available at the time of reporting, the WHO said.

Further sporadic human cases could occur, as this virus is one of the most prevalent avian influenza viruses circulating in poultry in different regions.

According to Dr Rajeev Jayadevan, former president of the Indian Medical Association, Cochin, it is important to understand that infection by this particular virus is known to be largely mild not only in birds but also in humans.

This is unlike other bird flu viruses like H5N1, which can cause up to 50% mortality in humans, he said. "More than the possibility of severe illness, the concern here is if this virus infects human beings along with another human influenza virus at the same time, mixing of genetic material could occur, creating influenza viruses that never existed before," he said.

Nadda in cabinet, who will be next BJP chief?

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

WITH BJP national president Jagat Prakash Nadda's tenure set to end on June 30 and he is part of the Modi 3.0 cabinet, the party is looking for his successor. Nadda is likely to be appointed the Leader of the House in the Rajya Sabha this time, taking over from Piyush Goyal.

"With Nadda's term set to end this month, the BJP is on a hunt for his successor to steer the party forward," said a senior BJP functionary, adding that the leadership will consider holding elections to fill the post as soon as possible, especially with assembly polls for several states being lined up this year.

Several names are doing the rounds within the BJP circles for the top post. Among the frontrunners is BJP national general secretary Vinod Tawde, who is in charge of the party affairs in Bihar and is known for his organisational skills. Tawde is considered the most successful headhunter for the party ahead of the Lok Sabha elections. "Most importantly, he remains available to party workers. That too, at a time when a majority of senior BJP leaders remains inaccessible to people," said the leader.

Other probable names include that of Sunil Bansal, general secretary and in-charge of West Bengal, Odisha and Telangana; Dr K Laxman, national president of OBC Morcha and central committee member; Om Mathur, RS MP from Rajasthan; Anurag Thakur, Hamirpur MP and former Union minister; Vanathi Srinivasan, national president of BJP Mahila Morcha, and Dr Sanjay Jaiswal, MP from Bihar.

Dr K Laxman, from Telangana, is a prominent OBC face, while Bansal could also be considered especially since the BJP has done well in two of the three states he is in charge of, during the recent elections.

Meanwhile, Mathur, who is also in-charge of Gujarat, could also be considered due to his long association with the RSS.

If the party decides to appoint a woman as its chief for the first time, Vanathi Srinivasan would be the main contender, said an insider.

Onion prices may soar again if procurement lags

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @New Delhi

ONION prices are likely to soar if government does not intervene and accelerate procurement, say experts and traders' associations.

Lesser production of onion due to drought-like conditions in Maharashtra and slower rate of procurement by the government agencies to maintain a buffer have fuelled onion prices in the last one month.

The retail price of the kitchen essential has risen by around 20% and wholesale price by 15% in the past one month. Last year this time, the retail price was around ₹21/kg and wholesale price at ₹1,581.97/quintal.

Currently, the retail price in Delhi and other metro cities is ranges from ₹35-40, which was around ₹20-25 a month ago. Market experts say the onion price will further rise beyond ₹50-60 as new kharif crops are expected to arrive in September and October.

Unlike last few years, the procurement of onion by the government agencies was quite less, which created positive sentiment among traders. "Lesser government procurement of onion prompted traders and farmers to stock more and sell it later when prices go up," said Prakash Jurel, a Uttar Pradesh-based onion trader.

Moreover, the procurement price fixed by the government was around ₹21/kg whereas wholesale market price is ranging around ₹25-30. This made farmers to stockpile onion for longer rather than bring it to the market for a better price.

"It would be better if the government increases the procurement price to motivate farmers to bring their onions to procurement centres. This will help in controlling retail price as well as adding to the government's buffer stock," said Yogesh Thorat, chairman of Maha FPC, a Maharashtra-based consortium of farmer producer companies.

Maharashtra is the largest producer, producing over 42% of the country's onion. Other major producers of onion are Madhya Pradesh, Karnataka, Gujarat and Rajasthan.

Additionally, this year the production of onion has reduced by 15-20% due to drought-like conditions in the onion-producing region of Maharashtra. Data shows that 27 districts of Maharashtra experienced deficient rainfall ranging from -20% to -45%.

Maharashtra experienced severe heatwave conditions which prevailed for a long time. Temperatures soared in May and June ranging from 44-48 °C over Central India, which constitutes the onion-growing region.

Longer spell of heatwave conditions has also impacted the quality of onions.

"Extreme heatwaves have spoiled the onion kept in stock either in farmers' homes or godowns in Aurangabad, Solapur and Ahmad Nagar," said Eknath Sanap, an Aurangabd-based onion farmer.

Assam Rifles lauds Lt Gen Dwivedi's appointment as Chief of Army Staff

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

THE confirmation of Lieutenant General (Lt Gen) Upendra Dwivedi's appointment as the next Indian Army Chief has come as a matter of joy for Assam Rifles, as he has had a couple of illustrious stints with the oldest paramilitary force raised in the country, in 1835.

"It is a matter of great pride and honour for Assam Rifles to have Lt Gen Upendra Dwivedi as the next Chief of Army Staff," said Assam Rifles Director General Lt Gen PC Nair.

In his 40-year-long career, Lt Gen Dwivedi has held numerous command and staff appointments at various levels both within India and abroad. "Notably, he has served twice with the Assam Rifles, once as Sector Commander in the 26 Sector Pallel, Manipur, and later as Inspector General Assam Rifles (East)," Nair said.

During his tenure as the Sector Commander in Pallel, from May 27, 2011 to December 13, 2012, Dwivedi demonstrated exemplary leadership and strategic acumen. His tenure is marked with 150 apprehensions, 173 surrenders and seven insurgents being neutralised.

Dwivedi commanded the IGAR (East) from March 19, 2017 to October 31, 2018.

"During his tenure, General Dwivedi was instrumental in addressing and mitigating insurgency challenges in South Assam and Jiribam. He successfully executed numerous Civic Action Projects across the area of responsibility, significantly impacting the overall well-being and development of local communities," said an officer of the force.

Post-LS poll and RSS drubbing, saffron party may go with Shinde in Maha assembly elections

BJP likely to call it quits with Ajit

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AFTER a write-up in the RSS mouthpiece said that the alliance with deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar-led NCP was one of the reasons for the BJP's Lok Sabha poll setback in Maharashtra, speculations are rife that the saffron party may snap ties with Ajit and fight assembly elections with CM Ekanth Shinde-led Shiv Sena as its ally, sources said.

The RSS was not happy with BJP leadership's decision of breaking the NCP and allying with the Pawar-led faction ahead of the LS polls, the sources said.

"RSS-BJP cadres are groomed on anti-Pawar plank. They are anti-Ajit Pawar because of his link to irrigation and Maharashtra state cooperative bank scams. But the anti-Pawar narrative took a back seat after junior Pawar joined hands with BJP. Rubbing salt to the wound, he was made a deputy chief minister in the Maha Yuti government," a senior BJP leader said, wishing anonymity.

"In the Lok Sabha elections, it was visible that RSS-BJP cadres were not ready to campaign for NCP candidates and remained complacent in many places. As a result, BJP's tally came down from 23 in 2019 to nine in 2024," the leader said. Ratan Sharda, a lifelong RSS worker, said in his article in Organiser that allying with Ajitreduced the "brand value of BJP" and made it "just another party without any difference."

Sources said the BJP leadership is deliberating on the impact of no truck with Ajit in assembly elections scheduled later this year. "If our party drops Ajit and goes ahead with Shinde in assembly elections, then it may appear that BJP used Ajit and later threw him. This use-and-throw policy may boomerang as well. But another scenario is that keeping Ajit as an ally may not be beneficial. Polls have shown that Ajit is a liability, so the BJP has to rethink with faction," another leader said.

Uddhav readies for all 288 seats

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

TAKING a cue from the Lok Sabha elections, Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Uddhav Thackeray on Wednesday asked his party leaders to start preparations for Maharashtra assembly elections scheduled later this year.

Addressing a meeting at Sena Bhavan here, Thackeray asked his top party leaders to get poll-ready in all 288 assembly seats in the state, said a leader who attended the meeting.

In the Lok sabha elections, the Shiv Sena (UBT) contested 21 seats and won. The Congress won 13 out of the 17 seats it contested. Independent candidate Vishal Patil supported the Congress after his win. Sharad Pawar-led NCP fielded candidate in 10 seats and won eight seats.

Thackeray's party underperformed among Maha Vikas Aghadi allies. "It was discussed at the meeting that Shiv Sena (UBT) made some blunders while selecting seats and candidates, resulting in loss in four to five easy-to-win Lok Sabha seats," the party leader said. "Uddhav Thackeray does not want to repeat the mistakes in the assembly elections, therefore he has decided to undertake corrective measures before things goes out of hand," he said.

Thackeray called for bolstering the party structure at the grassroots level. "The party network has to be strengthened at local and booth levels. There was sympathy for Uddhav Thackeray but we failed to cash in on it because of lack of booth-level network. We have enough time to tone up the lowest but key structure of the party. If it is in place, we can win more seats," the leader added.

Later, Thackeray said there were no differences in the opposition MVA over candidates for the upcoming state legislative council polls to four constituencies. "There is no difference. It is a fact there was a loose connection in dialogue (among partners)," he said.

Abhishek on sabbatical from politics, cites health issues

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

TRINAMOOL Congress' general secretary Abhishek Banerjee, on Wednesday, announced his decision to take a "short hiatus" from political and organisational activities citing health issues.

In his X handle he mentioned "Last year around this time, I had the opportunity to participate in NABOJOWAR Yatra and travelled across West Bengal to understand the issues and challenges faced by people on the ground.

Witnessing firsthand the hardships caused by RISING PRICES and the stoppage of MGNREGA dues deeply affected me."

In response, the AITC organised statewide protests and took the matter to Delhi to fight for people's rights, he said. The matter was addressed in February, along with increased financial assistance through the Lakshmir Bhandar scheme to help families, Banerjee added.

"I am profoundly grateful to the people of Bengal for their trust and faith in us. The results of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections reflect the anger and frustration of the people, especially regarding the neglect of basic housing rights due to the state-centre conflict. We have committed to addressing this by December 31st, and I have already requested the HCM and relevant authorities of GoWB to prioritise this issue," the AITC leader said.

He added, "In light of some pressing medical reasons, I will take a short hiatus from the organization. This time off will allow me to humbly explore and understand our people's and community's needs. I trust that GoWB will act swiftly and leave no stone unturned to ensure justice for those in need."

The results of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections reflect the anger and frustration of the people, especially regarding the neglect of basic housing rights due to the state-centre conflict.

The party is committed to addressing this by December 31, adding that he has already requested the HCM and relevant authorities of GoWB to prioritise this issue.

Reacting to his move, the BJP leaders claimed that the ED and CBI arrest scare had forced him to quit politics. BJP leader Sukanta Majumdar said, "Banerjee is afraid of BJP, and that is why he has taken a leave. He fears ED and CBI investigations, so he has taken a leave from politics for a certain period."

'Defaming Sai govt'

The BJP accused the Congress of having incited the violence with a premeditated conspiracy to defame the Vishnu Deo Sai government since the organisers had repeatedly assured the administration of a peaceful protest

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Chhattisgarh government is mulling to recover huge losses caused by damage to composite government buildings and public properties during the violence and arson carried out by crowd ostensibly belonging to the Satnami community in Baloda Bazar district, about 75 km from the state capital.

Meanwhile, the government has removed the collector and the district police chief of Baloda Bazar. A 2011-batch IAS officer Deepak Soni took charge as new collector and IPS officer Vijay Agrawal joined as the superintendent of police on Wednesday.

State home minister Vijay Sharma cited the erupted incident as the handiwork of anti-social elements who are suspected to be outsiders (not from Chhattisgarh) and carried out the violence with 'nefarious pre-planned intent'.

"The state government is seriously contemplating to recover the huge losses caused to government properties from the perpetrators involved in large-scale arson. We have taken the incident very seriously and will initiate stern actions against those implicated in blatantly disturbing peace and harmony," said Arun Sao, deputy chief minister.

The authorities have begun examining the extent of damage in the district collectorate premises and the office of superintendent of police. The BJP accused the Congress of having incited the violence with a premeditated conspiracy to defame the Vishnu Deo Sai government since the organisers had earlier repeatedly assured the district administration of a peaceful protest, not expecting a mob.

J&K on high alert after four terror strikes in three days

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A high alert has been sounded in Jammu and Kashmir following four back-to-back militant attacks in three districts of Jammu region in three days and intelligence inputs of a possible fidayeen attack.

Two militants were killed in an encounter in Saida Sukhal village in Hira Naga sector, close to the International Border, in Kathua district. The encounter had started last night after militants barged into a house in the village and demanded food and water.

"The father-son duo present in the house grew suspicious and raised an alarm. As they attempted to escape, militants lobbed a grenade and fired gunshots," ADGP Jammu Anand Jain said. The security men immediately launched a search operation. "During the operation, there was a gunfight. The firefight continued till today afternoon during which both militants were killed. One militant was killed last night while another was killed today," the ADGP said.

While an encounter in Kathua village was on, militants attacked a joint patrol party of police and army at a checkpoint at Chattergala area in neighbouring Doda district at midnight.

DIG Ramban-Doda, Shridhar Patil said, "There was fire from militants and an exchange of gunfire continued for one-and-a-half hour". Five Armymen and a police jawan were injured in the attack. They have been hospitalized. "Police and army have launched a search operation in the area, which is hilly and has dense forest area," the DIG said.

Militant outfit Jaish-e-Mohammed linked 'The Kashmir Tigers' claimed responsibility for the attack. The third gunfight between militants and security forces erupted in mountainous Doda district of Jammu and Kashmir injuring a policeman A police official said based on an input, a joint search operation was launched by police, CRPF and army Tantra area of Doda district in the evening.

"As the security men were conducting a search operation, they came under fire from militants hiding in the area. The fire was returned by the troops, triggering an encounter," he said.

Dalit outrage against BJP MLA's son, rally draws huge turnout in Gujarat

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

DAYS after Dalit youth and NSUI leader Sanjay Solanki was assaulted by the son of BJP MLA Geetaba Jadeja from Gondal, community leaders on Wednesday organised a bike rally in protest against the MLA's son.

An FIR has been registered and several individuals, including accused Ganesh Jadeja, arrested in connection with the abduction and attempted murder of Sanjay Solanki -- the son of the head of the Scheduled Castes (SC) of Junagadh district.

> Media coverage has been biased but I have every community's support. Soon, people will express concern about the disgrace brought to Gondal. They should be worried about that
>
> Jairajsinh Jadeja

Earlier in the day, "Samast Dalit Samaj Gujarat" took out a rally from Junagadh to Gondal as a mark of protest. In response, 84 villages in Gondal, along with Saurashtra's prominent Gondal Marketing Yard, observed a "Bandh" in support of the MLA's son. Raju Solanki, the father of the attacked youth, informed the media, "Today, a bike rally was organised by the SC members across Gujarat in response to the abduction and attempted murder of my son, Sanjay Solanki."

Former BJP MLA Jairajsinh Jadeja, speaking about the rally organised against his son Ganesh, said, "This is a rally, a meeting, and it doesn't matter who speaks at it. There is a huge difference in our levels and I don't need to respond to such people." "So far, the media coverage has been biased but I have every community's support. Soon, the people will gather to express their concerns about the disgrace brought to Gondal. They should be worried about that."

According to the FIR, the incident took place on Thursday night when Sanjay asked Ganesh to drive carefully after the latter's car passed too close to his two-wheeler. Next morning, when Sanjay was out, a car carrying Ganesh's men allegedly rammed into him. Five men allegedly attacked him with sticks, and forced him into the vehicle, police said.

Raj sops to raise student uptake in schools

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

FOLLOWING the lifting of the code of conduct, the newly formed Bhajanlal government in Rajasthan is taking proactive steps to improve education for economically deprived children. To encourage regular attendance and completion of classwork, the Rajasthan School Education Council has announced a new incentive program for students in government schools.

Under this initiative, students will receive a reward of Rs. 20. The awards will be distributed quarterly on Amavasya (New Moon Day) in August, October, and December as part of the newly introduced Community Awareness Day Program.

This event, organized by the Vidyalaya Vikas Samiti, will be held in all primary , upper primary, and senior secondary schools throughout the state. The selection of Amavasya for the program is particularly significant, as it addresses a unique aspect of the local community.

Recognizing that many students in government schools are children of workers, who usually have a holiday on Amavasya in the state, the department aims to involve parents in the prize distribution ceremonies. By witnessing their children receiving awards, it is hoped that parents will encourage their children to stay motivated and engaged in their studies.

If Amavasya falls on a government holiday or Sunday, the program will be rescheduled to another day. The Education Department has allocated a budget to support this initiative. Each school will award five students with a minimum prize of ₹20, totalling ₹100 per event. Thus, a budget of ₹300 has been designated for each school's quarterly program. Overall, ₹2,18,20,300 has been allocated for 69,401 schools across the state.

While the initiative has been well-received, there has been some criticism regarding the prize amount. Social and teacher organizations argue that the prize money is insufficient and should be increased to at least ₹100 to make a meaningful impact. As noted by critics, ₹20 is barely enough to purchase a basic pen. This initiative comes in the wake of the BJP's unexpected performance in recent elections.

Despite winning 25 consecutive seats in two Lok Sabha elections, the party managed only 14 seats this time. Additionally, the BJP did not achieve the anticipated success in the assembly elections. Analysts suggest that the Congress party's public welfare initiatives and support for economically deprived communities played a significant role in this shift.

The BJP's stance on reservation policies also influenced voter sentiment, particularly among the economically weaker sections.

In response, it is believed that the BJP has begun efforts to regain the support of these sections of society. The new incentive program by the Bhajanlal government is seen as a strategic move to address educational disparities and foster greater community involvement in Rajasthan's government schools.

30-year-old from Punjab, killed in Russia, wanted to join Indian Army

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

TEJPAL Singh, a 30-year-old from Punjab, embarked on a journey to Russia in January under a tourist visa, unaware that he would soon find himself enlisted in the Russian army.

Tragically, two months ago, he lost his life amid the Russia-Ukraine war, a fact only recently discovered by his grieving family. Tejpal had harboured aspirations of joining the Indian army, casting a shadow of sorrow over his home in Amritsar. Regrettably, he is not the only casualty from India in this conflict, with 23-year-old Hemil Ashvinbhai Mangukiya from Surat and 31-year-old Mohammad Asfan from Hyderabad also meeting similar fates this year.

Tejpal's family only learned of his demise in the Russia-Ukraine war on March 12, though the news reached them just a few days ago. The Ministry of External Affairs confirmed the deaths of two Indians in the conflict, withholding their identities, though it is widely believed that Tejpal was among them. Originally from Palam Vihar on Majitha Road, on the outskirts of Amritsar, Tejpal's parents, Preetpal Singh and Sarabjit Kaur, operate a grocery shop in the area. Tejpal was their eldest son; tragically, his younger brother, Gagandeep Singh, passed away in 2019 due to a heart attack. Tejpal had married Parminder Kaur in 2017, and they have a six-year-old son and a three-year-old daughter.

Kept in touch till Mar 3

Throughout his training, Tejpal kept in touch with his wife, regularly sharing photographs of his arduous regimen. His final call to her came on March 3, wherein he expressed his inability to communicate for the next few days due to impending deployment to Tokmak, a city in south-central Ukraine, where communication was restricted.

Inconsolable, Parminder Kaur reflects, "My husband dreamt of joining the army since childhood. Despite numerous attempts, he couldn't secure a spot in the Indian Army or paramilitary forces. Hence, he sought opportunities abroad, leading him to Russia on a tourist visa, arriving on January 12. He was recruited into the Russian army on January 16 and underwent rigorous theoretical and practical training. Subsequently, he was stationed at the Ukraine border, where he met his untimely end on March 12. Knowing several acquaintances from Punjab and Haryana who had joined the Russian forces influenced his decision to enlist."

Hamas wants changes to truce plan

BEIRUT

US Secretary of State Antony Blinken said on Wednesday that mediators would keep trying to close an elusive ceasefire deal after Hamas proposed numerous changes to a US-backed plan, some of which he said were "workable" and some not. The back-and-forth laid bare frustration over the difficulty of reaching an accord that can bring an end to eight months of war that has decimated Gaza, killed tens of thousands of Palestinians and left scores of Israeli hostages still languishing in militant captivity.

Previous moments of optimism have been repeatedly dashed by the differences between the two sides.

The ceasefire proposal has global support but has not been fully embraced by Israel or Hamas. Blinken did not spell out what changes Hamas was seeking but he said the mediators — Qatar, Egypt and the US — will keep trying to "close this deal." He put the onus on Hamas, accusing it of changing its demands. "Hamas has proposed numerous changes to the proposal that was on the table. ... Some of the changes are workable. Some are not," Blinken told reporters in Qatar.

Anthony Blinken in Doha | AP

"I believe that they (the differences) are bridgeable, but that doesn't mean they will be bridged because ultimately Hamas has to decide."

Hamas conveyed its official reply to the proposal to mediators on Tuesday. Hamas spokesman Jihad Taha told the Lebanese news outlet ElNashra that the "amendments" requested by the group aim to guarantee a permanent ceasefire and complete Israeli troop withdrawal from Gaza.

"At some point in a negotiation and this has gone back and forth for a long time, you get to a point where if one side continues to change its demands, including making demands and insisting on changes for things that it already accepted, you have to question whether they're proceeding in good faith or not," he said.

Speaking alongside Blinken, Qatari Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman bin Jassim Al Thani said: "We have seen the behaviour from both parties on different occasions been counterproductive to the efforts."

The proposal's three-phase plan would begin with a six-week ceasefire and the release of some hostages in exchange for Palestinian prisoners.

A major hitch for both sides appears to be the negotiations for the second phase. AP

Pension panel may not mimic Andhra model

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE Somanathan Committee set up to review the pension scheme for government employees is not copying the Andhra Pradesh Model as has been commonly reported in the media, government sources told TNIE.

The government official, who is closely associated with the workings of the committee, also said that the Somanathan committee is yet to submit its final report.

Another official from the Department of Financial Services (DFS) told this newspaper that the committee has in principle agreed to safeguard the interest of the employees. However, he said that the discussions are still at early stages.

There were news reports that the Somanathan Committee has submitted its report and that they have adopted a model similar to the Andhra Pradesh pension scheme for its government employees.

Under the Andhra Pradesh's Guaranteed Pension Scheme (GPS), the pensioners get 50% of their last drawn basic salary along with dearness allowance which is linked to inflation.

However, unlike the Old Pension System (OPS), the pension scheme under the Andhra model is a defined contribution plan, where the pensioner has to contribute towards the retirement corpus. If there is a shortfall in the corpus, the government will fill the gap and make sure that the pensioners get 40-50% of their last drawn salary.

The the Department of Financial Services official told this newspaper that no conclusion has been reached on the government contributing to the shortfall in the corpus if the guaranteed pension of 50% of last drawn salary is not achieved.

Meanwhile, the first official quoted above said that the Somanathan Committee has had extensive discussions with state governments on the issue. The committee is of the opinion that it is the lower rung employees in the government who need to be protected from the market-linked nature of the National Pension System (NPS).

Meanwhile, on the issue of pension of armed forces, the government official said that if the Agniveer Scheme is not implemented, the government would face a big financial burden. He said that armed forces not only receive pension under the Old Pension System (OPS) – where bulk of the burden of the pension is borne by the state – they also avail the benefit of One Rank One Policy. The two together have a huge financial burden on the state exchequer.

50% of basic salary, DA under AP model

Under the Andhra Pradesh's Guaranteed Pension Scheme (GPS), the pensioners get 50% of their last drawn basic salary along with dearness allowance which is linked to inflation. However, unlike the Old Pension System (OPS), the pension scheme under the Andhra model is a defined contribution plan, where the pensioner has to contribute towards the retirement corpus

Banks, NBFCs well-placed, says Moody's

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

STATING that the credit quality in the country's financial system has improved in recent years with record-high profitability of over ₹3 trillion in FY24, low delinquencies and domestic-oriented funding underpinning stable credit ratings, the system is well-placed to ride on the strong economic growth going ahead with strong credit growth.

"Banks and non-bank finance companies (NBFCs) are well placed to seize opportunities from the country's strong economic prospects through higher lending in sectors such as infrastructure, energy transition, manufacturing, small businesses and retail. The system wide credit quality has strengthened over the past three-four years which has seen in the record-high profitability, low delinquencies and stable domestic-oriented funding, underpinning their stable credit ratings," Moody's and its domestic subsidiary Icra Ratings said here Wednesday.

The report also noted the improved capitalization of financial institutions with healthy internal accruals and capital raising from buoyant debt and equity markets.

Retail inflation moderates to 12-month low of 4.75% in May

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

CONSUMER price inflation slightly decreased from 4.83% in April to a one-year low of 4.75% in May, as per the government data. However, food price inflation remained steady at 8.7%, with urban households experiencing a higher spike of 8.83% in food prices.

Retail inflation was recorded at 4.31% in May 2023 as food prices rose less than 3%. In May, the Consumer Price Index (CPI) increased by 0.5% on a month-on-month basis, while the food price index saw a rise of 0.73% from the levels recorded in April.

There was a noticeable disparity in the inflation trends between urban and rural consumers for the third consecutive month. In May, rural households experienced a 5.3% increase in prices, while urban consumers saw a retail inflation rate of 4.15%, slightly up from 4.14% in March and 4.11% in April. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) forecasts that retail inflation will average 4.5% for this year, with an expected average of 4.9% for the April to June quarter.

In May, price pressures persisted for most food items, with notable increases in vegetable prices by 27.3%, cereals by 8.7%, eggs by 7.6%, fruits by 6.7%, and pulses by 17.14%, marking a year of over 10% inflation. Meat and fish prices rose by 7.3% in May, slightly lower than the 8.2% increase in April. Edible oil prices decreased by 6.7% compared to last year, a milder decline than the 9.4% dip seen in April.

"Daily retail food prices indicate upward pressure in the first two weeks of June 2024. Continued pick-up in vegetable prices (M-o-M), pulses and cereals, reflecting impact of heatwave conditions. Core inflation is expected to remain subdued in June. Food prices are expected to ease as the monsoon season progresses. The outlook for inflation remains favourable with monsoon supported by development of La Nina conditions," Gaura Sen Gupta; Chief Economist, IDFC FIRST Bank Economics Research said.

April Industrial output growth declines to 5%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU@ New Delhi

India's industrial production growth slipped to three-month low of 5% in April 2024, mainly due to poor show by the manufacturing sector, though mining and power segments performed well, according to official data released on Wednesday.

Factory output growth, measured in terms of the Index of Industrial Production (IIP), was 5.4% in March and 5.6% in February 2024. The previous low of IIP was recorded at 4.2% in January, 2024.

For the fiscal 2023-24, IIP growth was 5.9% against 5.2% in the preceding financial year. Index of Industrial Production grew by 4.6 per cent in April 2023, according to a statement by the Ministry of Statistics & Programme Implementation. As per the latest data, the mining output growth accelerated to 6.7% in April against a 5.1% expansion in the year-ago month.

India will require $215 bn to reach target of 500 GW renewable energy by '30

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA will require $190 billion-$215 billion of investment over the next seven years to achieve the target of 500 gigawatts (GW) of renewable energy capacity by 2030, according to Moody's report.

The country will need another $150 billion-$170 billion of investment will be required for electricity transmission and distribution as well as energy storage.

"The sizeable pipeline of announced projects will keep the financial leverage of renewable power companies rated by Moody's high over the next two-three years – a credit negative – but the leverage of government-related issuers will remain moderate over the same period, given their relatively strong balance sheets," said Abhishek Tyagi, Moody's Vice President and Senior Credit Officer.

He also highlighted the strong growth in the country's renewable energy capacity to continue but coal will remain a major source of electricity generation over the next 8-10 years.

As per Moody's Ratings (Moody's), India's infrastructure companies will be spending on energy transition to meet demand resulting from the country's relatively strong economic growth. However, government policies and stable regulatory frameworks will support credit quality. It mentioned that the country needs to continue the policy support to help the country make significant progress toward its 2030 transition targets and 2070 net-zero goals.

"Strong policy support has helped India increase the share of renewable energy in its power capacity mix to around 43% in fiscal 2023, which ended March 2023, and fiscal 2024. Continued policy support will help the country make significant progress toward its 2030 transition targets and 2070 net-zero goals," reads the report.

Meanwhile, ICRA, an affiliate of Moody's in India, forecasts increased spending on transportation infrastructure projects, including on roads, ports and airports over the coming years, benefiting from solid government support, rising capital outlays and a large pipeline of projects.

IFSC to finalise direct listing norms by early July

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

THE final rules for direct listing of public companies on the Gift City exchanges will be ready early next month and the first public float may take place within a quarter from there, the International Financial Services Centres Authority chairman K Rajaraman has said.

While the government has already notified the regulations to enable direct listing of domestic companies in Gift-City in January, the IFSC Authority in May sought comments on a consultation paper on additional regulatory requirements.

"We realised that our regulations of dual listing and direct listing needed a little update.

Therefore, in the last two months we have updated the listing regulations that have gone through the public consultation process. We are likely to place it for final approval in our authority meeting by this end of this month. It will probably get notified by early next month," Rajaraman told a select group of reporters at the BSE headquarters here

After the final regulations are in place, we may see the first listing within a quarter, the chairman added. Once the final norms are in place, foreign companies as well as domestic unlisted companies will be able to file offer documents with the IFSC exchanges for listing.

The chairman further said the framework for allowing already-listed companies (dual listing) on domestic exchanges to raise capital through Gift City exchanges is finalised by the Sebi and will be ready within two-three months. The IFSCA has already provided its inputs on the subject, he added.

IFSCA's issuance and listing of securities regulations, 2021 provides the current framework for listing of various securities by issuers incorporated in the IFSC, India and other foreign jurisdictions.

Free-look period in insurance products increased to 30 days

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) has made it mandatory for life insurance savings products to have option of loan against the policy in order to allow policyholders to meet liquidity requirements.

In a circular for life insurance policies issued on Wednesday, the regulator has raised the free-look period, which provides time to review policy terms and conditions, from 15 days to 30 days.

As per the master circular, the facility of partial withdrawal under pension products is now allowed enabling policyholders to meet their specific financial needs for important life events like higher education or marriage of children, etc. On the issue of surrender value, the circular says that in case of surrenders, reasonableness and value for money should be ensured for both surrendering policyholders and continuing policyholders.

These circulars are part of the IRDAI's larger objective of insurance reforms. "A conducive environment is now facilitated to spur innovation, enhance customer experience and satisfaction. Boards of Insurers are now enabled to decide on various business aspects to quickly align their strategies to the changing market requirements," says the insurance regulator in a statement.

BCCI's ACU takes note of Salem Spartans owner case

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

HOURS after this daily broke the news of an owner of the Tamil Nadu Premier League (TNPL) team getting duped by more than ₹6 crore, it is understood that the Anti-Corruption Unit (ACU) of the Indian cricket board (BCCI) has taken cognizance of the issue and may launch an inquiry into it. "A formal inquiry could be launched into the issue," a BCCI's ACU source told this daily.

It should be noted that Salem Spartans' owner M Selvakumar got an FIR registered at the CCB - 1 police station in Chennai last year claiming he was duped by ₹6.10 crore on the pretext of buying shares in a Caribbean Premier League (CPL) team. In the FIR, Selvakumar named four suspects/accused including domestic cricketers Robin Bist and Akash Sumra. The former was the coach of the Salem team while the latter played for the franchise last season. Bist was again bought by the franchise this season as a player during the auction held early this year despite the FIR (in December 2023). "The league is run by the Tamil Nadu Cricket Association (TNCA) so the state unit along with those involved including the victim owner and players could be questioned. Once the ACU understands the matter completely, it may issue notices to the parties concerned," added the source.

Sources at the TNPL, however, said that the league hasn't received any official intimation in this regard either from the owner or other parties involved in the case and hence currently it's not in the position to do anything. The matter is under trial in the lower court in Chennai. Selvakumar in the FIR claimed that Robin and Akash introduced him to Satish Kumar and Nitin Khokar saying the duo owns 27 per cent shares in a CPL team and the company owning the team had a valuation of ₹30 crore of shares. The owner also claimed that Satish threatened him with dire consequences when he demanded his money back. Even as Bist's name is mentioned in the FIR as a suspect/accused, Selvakumar told this daily that the cricketer's name found a place in the report for witnessing purposes. Bist too was shocked when questioned about his name in the FIR and claimed he only introduced Satish and Nitin to the Salem franchise owner. Selvakumar in the FIR stated that Satish and Nitin lured him to make a total investment of ₹22 crore with an initial investment of ₹6 crore to acquire 25 per cent shares.

To be or not to B, that is the question

England precariously placed, Australia's last match against Scotland will be under the lens

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

JUNE 25, 1982. West Germany and Austria have just kicked-off their last World Cup group match in Gijon, Spain. Both teams know exactly what to do. West Germany score one goal in the 10th minute. Austria don't respond. They knew they were going to qualify as long as they only lose 0-1 or 0-2. Observers raise a huge stink. Algeria, in second place when the match commenced but with no matches left to come back, lodge an official complaint. FIFA ruled that neither team broke any rule. Post that incident, one Austrian player admitted that the match was fixed. To guard against future collusion, FIFA have always ensured that the final group stage matches take place simultaneously. This incident has since been named the 'Disgrace of Gijon'.

The International Cricket Council (ICC) has never been one to host final group stage matches simultaneously. In both white-ball World Cups, they are happy to let teams finish their group assignments at different times. In such a format, a few teams know exactly what's to be done on the final matchday. This is a huge advantage to have; worse still, such a system can be gamed. This is exactly what the ICC has in its hands right now in Group B. Australia, currently on six points, have already qualified. Scotland, on five points, need one more point to confirm their place. They also have a very superior NRR over England, who are on one point.

Scotland play their final game against Australia after England wrap up their obligations. Assuming England win against both Oman and Namibia — that may itself be misplaced considering how they have played so far — they will have the same number of points as Scotland. The Scots, when they line up for their anthems, will know exactly what to do to advance. There may well be a scenario where even a big loss will take them through.

Even otherwise, Australia could eliminate England. Josh Hazlewood admitted as much. "In this tournament you potentially come up against England at some stage again and they're probably one of the top few teams on their day," said Hazlewood after Australia cruised past Namibia by nine wickets on Tuesday. "We have had some real struggles against them in T20 cricket so if we can get them out of the tournament that's in our best interest as well as probably everyone else. It will be interesting to see. We've never really been in this position before as a team." He conceded that 'it's in our best interest' to see England, the current holders, suffer an early elimination. For the record, England had the opportunity to inflict a similar thing on Australia in 2021 but eschewed it. Australia said 'thanks' and won the World Cup. While the pacer added that they will aim for a clean sweep, there are no real incentives for finishing top. Even if they lose to Scotland and finish second in the group, there are no long term consequences. Those points aren't carried through to the next stage, the NRRs also aren't. This wasn't lost on Hazlewood. "Yeah, it's a little bit strange that it doesn't really, it doesn't go through the tournament," he said. "This is probably the first T20 World Cup I've played that's set up this way, or first World Cup in general that's set up this way, so it's a little bit different. The work that you do in the round games and if you go through undefeated and have a good net run rate, doesn't really account for much once you're in the Super 8s. So, yeah, it's a strange run, but that's how it is."

To be fair to the ICC, this time they couldn't have managed to keep last group matches at the same time. In groups with odd number teams, that is just not possible. But with no reward for finishing first, it does leave the door open for Australia to at least have a conversation. According to the ICC rule-book, this doesn't necessarily constitute match-fixing. At worst, Australia's captain Mitchell Marsh will cop a suspension.

After Pak, show vs Ind bodes well for USA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

CRICKET'S return to the Olympics for the 2028 Los Angeles Games was confirmed last year during the International Olympic Committee's executive board meeting in Mumbai. With a provision for the hosts to feature in the Games, the USA cricket team can dream of competing in the world's biggest sporting extravaganza in front of its home crowd four years down the line.

Given the great opportunity on offer, they need to improve quite a bit to make their presence felt by the time the Olympics come calling. And what else can prepare them for the bigger challenges lying ahead than the T20 World Cup? Making their debut in the event jointly hosted by the West Indies, the USA have already impressed all and sundry with their prolific show in the first couple of matches wherein they registered a huge upset victory over Pakistan. It will be too early to predict their future as far as the Olympics are concerned. But one thing is sure — they need the opportunity to face high quality opponents frequently to leave their mark on the cricketing landscape.

With the USA earning a historic win against Pakistan, their match against heavyweights India on Wednesday was yet another chance for them to take a giant leap forward. Despite them facing the World No 1 side in T20Is for the first time, they managed to fare better scoring 110 for eight in 20 overs. What made the otherwise below-par total admirable was the fact that they lost their opener Shayan Jahangir for a naught off the very first ball before being reduced to three for two in the first over bowled by Arshdeep Singh. They should also be credited as they did not give wickets to India's premier pacer Jasprit Bumrah. Arshdeep was the pick of the bowlers for India with figures of 4/9 from four overs. Although Suryakumar Yadav (50 n.o) and Shivam Dube (31 n.o) guided India home, USA showed enough promise to test the opponents early on. And their steely resolve was enough to highlight what they can achieve in the future. Brief scores: USA 110/8 in 20 ovs (Nitish 27, Taylor 24; Arshdeep 4/9) lost to India 111/3 in 18.2 ovs (Yadav 50 n.o, Dube 31 n.o).

CONTENDERS, DARK HORSES AND OTHERS

Even by the general hype that follows England, this team has generated a lot of buzz. If they are to break the European duck, they may well have to find a way past France, whose depth is scary. A look at the next two Groups as we continue our countdown for the Euros...

GROUP C

SLOVENIA: Gave Denmark a run for their money before finishing second in the qualifiers. They have Jan Oblak at one end and Benjamin Sesko, one of the hottest young European strikers in the game currently, at the other. This could well be Sesko's breakout Summer after finishing the season really strongly for RB Leipzig. They recently beat Portugal 2-0 in a friendly so they possess tools.

Champions - Nil, Last time- Didn't qualify

DENMARK

Had an emotionally charged campaign last time (Cristian Eriksen had a cardiac arrest during a group game in Copenhagen). It ultimately saw them reach the semifinals as the likes of Mikkel Damsgaard and Joakim Maehle found a higher level. Since then, they have been up and down. May suffer from a lack of creativity in midfield but the emergence of Rasmus Hojlund is welcome up front.

Champions - 1992

Last time- Semi-finals

ENGLAND

There are big concerns at the back thanks to injuries. But up front, it's a different story. They can genuinely lay claim to having three of the best players in three of the biggest European leagues — Harry Kane (Bundesliga), Jude Bellingham (La Liga) and Phil Foden (Premier League). Add in the likes of Trent Alexander Arnold, Declan Rice and Bukayo Saka, they have some of the best players on show. Can they go one better than last time?

Champions - Nil

Last time - Runners-up

SERBIA

They are a unique side in that they play with two strikers, Aleksandar Mitrovic and Dusan Vlahovic. The flipside is that they can be more open at the back but they have made their peace with that. At the World Cup, they scored five but conceded eight. Veteran Dusan Tadic is still the chief string-puller in midfield. Come into the tournament on the back of a solid 0-3 result against Sweden.

Champions - Nil

Last time - Didn't qualify

FRANCE

Have at least reached the World Cup final on each of their last two occasions. Closer home they lost on penalties in 2021 but they are ideally placed to go all the way. The depth in the side borders on obscene and they are helped by the presence of Kylian Mbappe, one of the best players in the world. The re-engineering of Antoine Griezmann as a playmaker is the sort of imagination other teams lack.

Champions: 1984, 2000

Last time: Round of 16

AUSTRIA

The hipsters' choice this time. Even without the injured David Alaba, they may bloody the noses of a few sides. They don't hog the ball but look to go long to get the ball into the likes of Michael Gregoritsch. Next to him, Marko Arnautovic is still around and could be a nuisance to defend against. Their clash against Poland could well be a winner-takes-all clash in terms of advancing as one of the best third-place teams.

Champions - Nil

Last time: Round of 16

NETHERLANDS

The absence of Frenkie de Jong will be felt but Xavi Simons, the impish creator in midfield, is someone who can drive the team forward. Have enjoyed two 4-0 victories over the last week so that should keep them in good stead. Somehow, Memphis Depay keeps plugging away up front but watch out for Jeremie Frimpong on their right side, whose all-action so helped Leverkusen to history. At the back, Virgil van Dijk's solidity allows the team to not panic.

Champions: 1988

Last time: Round of 16

GROUP D

POLAND: Robert Lewandowski is out of the opener in a big blow for them. He's usually their primary goal-scoring threat but they have other avenues to goal. The wing-backs can bomb forward and much will also be expected of Jakub Piotrowski from midfield. Won both their friendlies so will be feeling good about themselves.

ROAD TO OLYMPICS

When I'm nervous, my body works well: Nikhat Zareen

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

WITH her steely resolve and ability to overwhelm rivals at will, Nikhat Zareen has been a towering presence in world amateur boxing in the last three years or so. She might seem invincible inside the ring on most days but she still feels nervous. With the Paris Olympic drawing closer and closer, Nikhat admitted that even while chasing her ultimate dream, nervousness is something she lives with and thrives on.

"Before every competition I get nervous. If I don't get nervous, my body doesn't work the way I want. When I'm nervous, my body works well. I'm more focussed. Also, this is my first Olympics and I don't have the experience of playing at the Olympics. That is also the reason I'm nervous. But once I enter the ring, I don't think about the outside world. I just want to win my bouts and come back with a medal," Nikhat said during an interaction facilitated by Sports Authority of India (SAI), Indian Olympic Association (IOA) and Boxing Federation of India (BFI). Back-to-back world titles (2022 & 2023), Asian Games bronze medal (2023), Commonwealth Games gold medal in 2022, her record speaks for itself. Ever since earning a spot in the national team, she has evolved into a better boxer. And now, she's determined to add an Olympic medal to her CV. Someone who sets the bar high, she said that her family and friends help her calm her nerves. "I talk to my family or talk to my very close friends. Before going to the venue, I listen to music. I pray and also play games which help me get distracted," Nikhat, who's training at SAI NSNIS (Patiala), said.

One thing that stands out is Nikhat's mental fortitude. Something that has been engraved in her ever since she took up the gloves for the first time. It's a well-documented tale that she faced early resistance due to gender stereotypes in her community in her hometown in Telangana before fighting countless battles to earn her place in the national team. That is evident when she spoke about seedings in the upcoming Games. "Seeding doesn't matter much because there are a lot of boxers who couldn't win a medal despite having a seeding. I feel whatever happens, however the draw might be, I just want to win. That is the mindset I like to possess. I have also realised that, whenever things are tough, I tend to perform better," the 27-year-old noted. Nikhat is grateful to be getting this opportunity and it's a given that she'll be looking to leave no stone unturned ahead of the Paris test.

Preeti embracing test

From nearly quitting to becoming one of the potential challengers for Olympic glory, Preeti Sai Pawar has had quite a journey so far.

The youngest (20) member of the team, like Nikhat, is embracing the challenge ahead of her. Having qualified for Paris in her very first attempt (Asiad), the boxer, who is a southpaw, has been fully immersed in her training in recent months. "In Strandja Memorial (February 2024), I lost. I had looked at that competition as part of training as my main focus was the Olympics. I got to learn a lot and I don't want to make the mistakes I made during the Olympics," she said. But she bounced back to leave a notable impression in the Asian U-22 Championships in Kazakhstan. "I won a gold medal and that has handed me a lot of confidence."

The 2023 IBA Women's World Boxing Championships was a monumental event for India. India hosted the marquee event and as many as four boxers (including Nikhat) from the country ended up with gold. Preeti was not among the medal winners but she was involved in three bouts and had left quite a mark then.

Ronaldo scores twice for Portugal

AGENCIES @Lisbon

CRISTIANO Ronaldo scored two goals to help Portugal beat Ireland 3-0 on Tuesday in a final warmup before Roberto Martinez's team heads to the European Championship in Germany.

The 39-year-old Ronaldo's second-half double followed Joao Felix's opener at Aveiro Municipal Stadium south of Porto. Portugal faces the Czech Republic next Tuesday in Leipzig. They also will play Turkey and Georgia in Group F. Ronaldo, who sat out last week's friendlies against Finland and Croatia, hit the post with a free kick in the 22nd minute shortly after Felix's goal. He then scored in the 50th and 60th minutes.

MUSE of the mountains

From exhibitions and museums to learning pottery and tea making, here's a guide on how to explore Dharamshala and McLeodganj through the lens of art...

GETTING THERE

Fly from Delhi or Shimla to Kangra Airport at Gaggal, 13 km from Dharamshala.

STAY

jüSTa Birding Resort & Spa, Khanyara Road, Dharamshala or Norling House/ Chonor House, Temple Road, McLeod Ganj.

PRIYA GANAPATHY & ANURAG MALLICK

FOR centuries, seekers, seers, travellers, poets, painters and mountaineers alike have been drawn to the ever-inspiring realm of the Himalayas. They come in droves to hike, stay, marvel at the stupefying beauty and generously imbibe the peace these hills offer. We were no different, returning to Dharamshala in Himachal Pradesh after 18 years.

Set on a quiet hill overlooking the panorama of Dharamshala, McLeodganj and the snowy peaks of the Dhauladhar range, our perch was perfect for the mountains to play the muse. But we were in for an immersive experience of exploring the region through art and our first stop was Chitrashaala. 42 artists had come together for the recently-concluded sixth edition of the international art residency — Chitrashaala, an initiative by Ashish Vohra, founder of jüSTa Hotels & Resorts and his wife Deepika Govind, a well-known fashion designer from Bengaluru. Bringing together artists from Poland, Egypt, Morocco, Turkey, Jordan, Italy, Mauritius, Thailand, Malaysia and Bangladesh, besides homegrown artists from Kolkata, Baroda, Mumbai, Delhi and Madhya Pradesh, the project served as a vibrant platform to exchange ideas and conversations around art through their varied styles, contemporary designs and surrealism.

Stepping out of the elevator, we nearly stumbled over easels and tables laden with paint bottles and brushes. Works of art were propped against the walls, left to dry. It was fascinating to watch how the same landscape, interactions with locals and their experiences in Dharamshala had impacted the artists and how they interpreted it in myriad ways. Almost a thousand original artworks created during Chitrashaala over the years are displayed across the hospitality brand's properties in Rishikesh, Mukteshwar and Udaipur.

Leaving the artists to their easels, we set off to try our hand at pottery at the legendary Andretta Pottery and Crafts Studio. Founded in 1983 by Mansimran Singh, popularly called Mini and his wife Mary Singh, Mansimran is the son of Gurcharan Singh, the Father of Indian Studio Pottery who launched the famous Delhi Blue Art Pottery in the '60s. Trained by renowned studio potters Bernard Leach and Geoffery Whiting in England, Mansimran settled in the quiet village of Andretta to pursue the dream his father had sowed. The couple, now in their 80's, have retired but Andretta is still an artist hub that allows pottery enthusiasts to learn the art through workshops and residential courses.

We took part in the short demo by Shubham Sankhyan and his team, marvelling at how a lump of clay could be shaped into whatever we liked. We peeked into the tiny store showcasing Andretta's signature glazes. The use of natural terracotta and 'slip trailing' is what sets them apart. Gorgeous creations of various sizes and utilitarian products in muted earthy tones of terracotta, green and blue embellished with the typical kangra rangoli patterns were stacked neatly. Each handcrafted piece was unique, highlighting their strong design philosophy and inspiration of using local materials and keeping the heritage alive. Nearby is a museum dedicated to the works of padma shri Sardar Sobha Singh (1901-1966), one of Punjab's most gifted and prolific artists. Housed in a lovely pink heritage building with a hip slate-tiled roof, Sobha Singh Art Gallery displays his paintings and sculptures — stunning larger-than-life portraits of Guru Nanak and Guru Gobind Singh to the timeless romance of Sohni-Mahiwal and Heer-Ranjha from Punjab's folk tales, freedom fighters Shaheed Bhagat Singh, Kartar Singh, Mahatma Gandhi, Lal Bahadur Shastri, Indian army heroes, landscapes and lots more.

Next up, was learning about the art of tea making. Kangra is the tea capital of North India. At the fascinating Himalayan Brew tea factory, we tasted 22 of their 180 varieties including Kangra Durbar and Detox Kahwa, besides kombuchas and syrups. It was a late lunch at Takri Natives' Kitchen and Café set amidst tea gardens in Gopalpur on the Dharamshala-Palampur Road. Takri is a traditional stone shelter used by gaddis or shepherds in the area. We dug into the Himachali bread siddu served with walnut, garlic and tomato chutneys, mushroom galouti, dimsum and the delicious traditional Kangra dham (thali) featuring Himachali dishes like alu chana ka madra, Pahadi chicken, khatta meat, keema kaleji and mutton gurda, served with rice and roti.

The following morning we visited McLeodganj and went straight to Norbulingka Institute at Sidhpur near Dharamshala is dedicated to the preservation of Tibetan art, craft and culture. Founded in 1995, it's a secret haven with Japanese inspired gardens that houses various workshops and studios dedicated to statue making, thangka painting, screen printing, wood painting and wood carving, to papermaking, metal craft, appliqué and tailoring. What an experience!

Noida International Airport gets a dedicated reserve forest

Set to become the second international airport in the country's capital, this upcoming establishment in Jewar is taking numerous green initiatives including utilising renewable energy and implementing rainwater harvesting systems

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THE Noida International Airport is being developed with the vision of becoming the country's leading greenfield airport, adhering to a philosophy of net-zero emissions, according to CEO Christoph Schnellmann. Spanning 5,000 hectares, the airport is being constructed in four phases, with the first phase covering 1,300 hectares and nearing completion. This upcoming establishment in the Jewar area of Gautam Buddh Nagar district, approximately 75 km from Delhi, is expected to commence operations by the end of this year.

Sustainability and minimal environmental impact were key criteria in selecting the airport's planning and design teams, construction partners and concessionaires. The Noida International Airport is also taking numerous green initiatives, such as utilising renewable energy, implementing rainwater harvesting systems and establishing onsite waste management and sewage treatment facilities. Additionally, electric ground support equipment is being employed to further reduce the airport's carbon footprint. Cost efficiency is another significant advantage of the Noida International Airport. Previously, it was reported that the airport would offer substantial savings for air travellers, with ticket prices potentially reduced by up to ₹1,500 compared to Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport (IGI). This cost benefit is primarily due to the difference in Aviation Turbine Fuel (ATF) weight charges, with Uttar Pradesh levying a 1 percent tax compared to Delhi's 25 percent tax, resulting in potential airfare savings of 10 to 15 percent.

Christoph highlighted the commitment to preserving local species, with a specific area within the airport land designated as an eight-acre forest reserve. Over 580 trees, including neem, mango, shisham, jand, lasora, pipal and banyan, have been transplanted at the construction site using scientific principles to ensure no net loss of biodiversity. The airport's commitment to sustainability is further demonstrated by its dedication to a net-zero carbon emission facility. In addition to the forest reserve, 133 hectares of land have been allocated as dedicated green areas. The transplantation of local trees is being carried out with the use of organic manure and scientific methods.

The engineering, procurement and construction (EPC) contractor has employed breakthrough technology from Nanogence Catalyst, a patented smart activator that enhances the binding efficiency of cementitious material, providing high material performance while reducing carbon emissions.

Kerala to host an international conference on gender-inclusive tourism

This October, the event will showcase Kerala's success in promoting participatory development in tourism through the Responsible Tourism Scheme and address issues faced by women travellers...

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

KERALA, renowned as God's Own Country, is set to host an international conference on responsible and gender-inclusive tourism in October 2024. This first-of-its-kind initiative aims to present Kerala's experience in creating a sustainable and gender-inclusive tourism model to the world. Kerala, a global leader in responsible tourism initiatives, launched its Responsible Tourism (RT) scheme in 2008 to promote a sustainable and inclusive scheme. The state's efforts were nationally recognised last year when Kanthalloor in Idukki won India Tourism's Best Tourism Village Gold Award.

The conference will showcase Kerala's success in promoting participatory development in tourism through the RT scheme, which has significantly impacted grassroots communities. The initiative has elevated Kerala as an all-season experiential destination with substantial benefits for local communities. The RT projects have been instrumental in highlighting Kerala's art, craft and traditional livelihoods, earning numerous national and international honours.

The Kerala Responsible Tourism Mission Society (KRTMS) has evolved into a massive grassroots network with 25,188 registered units, of which 17,632 are either owned or led by women. So far, approximately 52,344 people have directly and 98,432 people indirectly benefited from its activities, mostly in rural areas. Over 150,000 families are now part of the project, which has resonated well with domestic and foreign tourists.

The conclave will also discuss plans to further strengthen the RT movement, which has gained global acclaim. Notable achievements include the RT Mission winning WTM London's Responsible Tourism Awards for the STREET project in 2022 and the Aymanam RT project in 2021. Additionally, the RT Mission organises village, agricultural and farm tours, cultural and experiential tours and culinary experiences, helping integrate local communities into the mainstream and conserve the cultural ecosystem.

To enhance gender equality and ensure safe destinations for women, the RT Mission will collaborate with civic bodies and the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN Women) in all programs. The state tourism board aims to address issues faced by travellers, particularly women, with the support of local bodies and women programs offered by the UN.

The details of the forthcoming conference are being finalised in consultation with the tourism department and other stakeholders. CEO of the Kerala Responsible Tourism Mission Society, Rupeshkumar K, emphasised the importance of these discussions in strengthening Kerala's commitment to responsible tourism. Kerala Tourism had previously organised the Global Responsible Tourism Summit in Kumarakom in February 2023, which drew significant global attention to the initiative and led to the adoption of the Kerala Responsible Tourism Declaration 2023.

FOLLOWING THE PASSING OF RENOWNED SAROD MAESTRO PANDIT RAJEEV TARANATH, THE HINDUSTANI CLASSICAL MUSIC FRATERNITY REMINISCE ABOUT THE MAN THEY KNEW AND WHAT THE LOSS MEANS TO THE COUNTRY

Silence of the SAROD

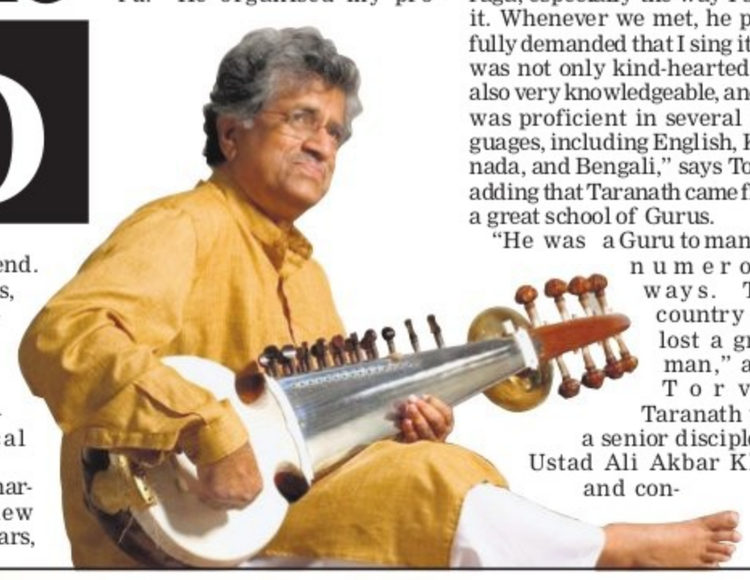
He [Rajeev Taranath] organised my programmes in Mysuru at his house. He loved the raga Alhaiya Bilaval which is a morning raga, especially the way I sang it. Whenever we met, he playfully demanded that I sing it

Pt Vinayak Malharrao Torvi, Indian classical vocalist

MONIKA MONALISA

SAROD maestro Pandit Rajeev Taranath dedicated his life to music from a young age, becoming an eminent figure in the realm of Hindustani classical music. Following his passing in Mysuru on June 11, he will be remembered not only for his music but also for his unending pursuit of knowledge until the end. Still digesting the news, maestros from the Hindustani classical fraternity in the city recall Taranath's dedication and contribution to classical music.

Pandit Vinayak Malharrao Torvi, who knew Taranath for over 40 years, remembers the sarod maestro attending his concerts many times in Bengaluru and Mysuru. "He organised my programmes in Mysuru at his house. He loved the raga Alhaiya Bilaval which is a morning raga, especially the way I sang it. Whenever we met, he playfully demanded that I sing it. He was not only kind-hearted but also very knowledgeable, and he was proficient in several languages, including English, Kannada, and Bengali," says Torvi, adding that Taranath came from a great school of Gurus.



"He was a Guru to many in numerous ways. The country has lost a great man," adds Torvi. Taranath was a senior disciple of Ustad Ali Akbar Khan and continued to learn from Khan until his death in 2009. Besides Khan, Taranath was also mentored by Pandit Ravi Shankar, Annapurna Devi, Pandit Nikhil Banerjee, and Ustad Aashish Khan. Furthermore, he was conferred with the Padma Shri in 2019 and the 1999-2000 Sangeet Natak Akademi Award.

The loss feels personal to tabla artistes like Kiran Yavagal, who visited Taranath in the hospital last week when he heard the news of his deteriorating health. Yavagal says that Taranath loved his musical instrument so much that he had one in the hospital. "I visited him before his surgery. He was always so optimistic that he told me that soon after the surgery, we would play for a concert," he shares, adding, "I stayed in Mysuru for four years, and he always took care of me. He was like a grandfather to me. Until the day he was hospitalised, he would get up in the morning and sit for practice."

Taranath's expertise extended beyond music; he was also well-versed in English literature. He headed the English literature department at the National Institute of Technology, Tiruchirappalli. In the 1980s, he taught English at Aden University, Florida, and was the head of the Indian music programme at the California Institute of Arts' World Music Department from 1995 to 2005. Renowned historian and a self-confessed connoisseur of music Ramachandra Guha, expressed his gratitude to the late musician on social media, saying, "Professor Rajeev Taranath was truly a rara avis(rare bird), a musician among the scholars and a scholar among the musicians."

Actor Kani Kusruti, whose latest film All We Imagine As Light won the Grand Prix at Cannes last month, opens up about her career, politics and the state of women's representation in the industry

'WE HARDLY SEE WOMEN CHARACTERS LIKE RANGAN ANNAN'

IT hasn't yet sunk in for Kani Kusruti. Two of her films – the Grand Prix Winner All We Imagine As Light (AWIAL) by Payal Kapadia and Shuchi Talati's Girls Will Be Girls – were screened at the prestigious Cannes Film Festival, catapulting her into an actor who has crossed many invisible borders. The actor is now back from the French coastal town and is busy shooting for a web series. Though congratulatory messages are pouring in, Kusruti says she hasn't yet been able to return many calls or reply to texts. "I didn't get time to sit with it and take it all in," she smiles. In a free-wheeling chat with CE, Kusruti opens up about her life, acting career and more.

Excerpts:

Two of your films were recently screened at Cannes with one even bagging a coveted award. How has life changed since then?

There hasn't been any drastic change, but I feel happy and proud about being a part of these films. The audience at Cannes could connect well with both films.

Your red carpet entry and your watermelon bag that symbolised solidarity with Palestine were all widely discussed...

I didn't think it would make so much noise. There were a lot of other statements being made at the festival. I think I got such attention because the clutch was prominent in photos. I wanted to propose this idea to my team, but since the festival had made it clear that they don't encourage political statements, I decided to do it myself and not pressurise others. But as it turned out, our producers later felt it was important to express solidarity with Palestine on the red carpet. Almost everyone in our team was supportive. So I don't consider it a personal statement, but rather, on behalf of all of us.

Shortly after you expressed solidarity for Palestine, people started discussing your film Biriyaani. You had also spoken about your disagreements with the film...

I actually spoke about it long back, but guess people have started taking me seriously only after Cannes. When Sajin Baabu approached me with Biriyaani's script, I didn't think he was trying to be Islamophobic, but I did feel that the audience might interpret Islam in a negative way. When I shared my concerns, he said this was his story and that his intention was to oppose patriarchy. Though I was aware of his intentions, I wasn't pleased with the film's release in the country's current political climate. I was also unhappy with my character; she was continuously facing hurdles and I didn't feel right about it. I told Sajin that aesthetically and politically, it wasn't my kind of film.

He is the filmmaker and I, as an artist, only had the choice of whether to be a part of it or not. Irrespective of the actor, Sajin was going to present it in his own way.

I've had similar problems – either moral or personal conflicts – with most of my projects. Since Biriyaani was being made on a small scale, I was hoping that it wouldn't reach a wide audience. Regarding criticism, I think it came at the wrong time. However, I believe that we should take accountability for our actions. I know a lot of artists who protect their integrity and I look up to them with respect. But as an actor, if I work based on my integrity, I might not get projects regularly. If the need arises, I might do it again, but if I'm financially stable enough to be choosy, then I might not do it.

A still from Biriyaani

Do you think creators nowadays are bound by political correctness?

I wish we were part of a developed society so that creators had the freedom to not be bothered about political correctness. Countries like France know how to film nuanced stories carefully. They are given space as creators and the audience is also welcoming of such stories. Sadly, we are not. Our society is still not ready to differentiate films from reality.

At the same time, I cannot watch somebody fighting, being killed or raped on screen. We as a society are still not okay with what a person wears, so we still have to go a long way.

A still from All We Imagine As Light

Following your win at Cannes, we feel a strong sense of sisterhood among your peers in Malayalam. While male friendships often result in projects, it's not the same with women. Do you feel like blaming the system for it?

Women are still behind in almost every walk of life. Irrespective of gender, there might be more talented people than the ones currently in the spotlight, who are stuck doing conventional jobs. Another aspect is that we do not have enough writers, and when the successful ones are predominantly male, producers will naturally lean towards them. We still have a long way to go before bridging that gap. Nowadays, we hardly see women characters leaving a lasting impression even after the film is over, such as Ranga Annan in Aavesham. Urvashi ma'am used to get such characters, even if the films were questionable in their totality. Whereas, male actors have always enjoyed good stories and characters. Also, there are no stories of transgender people yet. We also don't see stories about different age groups. It's mostly about people between 20s-40s. If you watch international cinema, you'll know that all ages are well represented.

Should I count calories or try intermittent fasting for weight loss?

Whether you are counting calories or opting for intermittent fasting, being in a calorie deficit and consuming nutrient-dense food is essential for healthy weight loss. Counting calories provides precise control over your food intake. It helps raise awareness of portion sizes and food choices but is time-consuming.

Intermittent fasting, involves cycling between periods of eating and fasting. The most popular window is 16/8, where you fast for 16 hours and eat during an 8-hour window, or the 5:2 method, where you eat normally for 5 days and restrict calories on 2 non-consecutive days. I suggest having an early dinner by 6 pm, and having your breakfast the next morning around 10 am. This works better as daytime fasting may make your energy levels drop.

If you are fasting during the day, be sure to stay hydrated during fasting periods. Focus on consuming nutritious foods during eating windows. It's advisable to seek help from a dietitian before you start.

MAKARASANA
(CROCODILE POSE)

In this pose, the practitioner lies on the tummy face down, bringing the hands folded at the elbows and placed below the forehead for support. Unlike Savasana, this is considered the only relaxation pose in which it is not possible to fall asleep due to the upright position of the neck and the head. It is also considered a restorative pose, where technically the heart rate is reduced with the relaxation of the entire muscular system and with the calming of the mind. The aim of this asana is to unleash the strain caused by other poses. This is considered a base pose for Makarasana variations and is also associated with the second chakra, Swadhisthana, which is placed above the tailbone.

STEPS

- Begin by relaxing your body after the pose, Viparita Karani. Take deep breaths while in this position.
- After relaxing, turn your body slowly to one side and get into the Makarasana 1 pose while facing down on the tummy.
- While in this position, place your forehead on the arms kept in front of you.
- Now extend your legs behind you, ensuring that the tops of your feet touch each other on the mat.
- Placing the forehead on the folded arms ensures that it relaxes the entire body. Stay here for 6 breaths.
- Focus on the elbows that are placed on the mat.
- Feel the stretch in the legs. Keep the toes pointed out.
- Breathe normally and slowly to relax the muscles.
- You can stay in the pose until you feel completely relaxed.

BENEFITS

- This pose stimulates the sacrum and improves prana flow through the entire spine.
- Stimulates the abdominal organs, improves digestion, and cures problems related to constipation.
- Improves the functioning of the spleen, urinary bladder, liver, pancreas, and intestines.
- Slows down the pumping of the heart.
- Improves the blood circulation throughout the body.
- Reduces the blood pressure, and activates diaphragm muscle.
- Aids in removing the stiffness of the lower back.
- Reduces the spasm and symptoms related to Premenstrual Syndrome (PMS).
- Cures slip disc, sciatica, spondylitis, and many other types of spinal disorders.
- Useful for prolonged periods of pranayama and deep meditation.
- Helpful in getting rid of hypertension, heart disease, stress, fatigue, and other health problems.
- Helps reduce insomnia.
- Stretches the muscles of the abdomen, chest, and neck and aches in certain areas.
- Aids in muscle recovery and relaxation.

LIMITATIONS

- You should not move your body during the practise of this asana.
- Avoid practising this asana in a disturbing atmosphere.
- Students who have serious back or knee injuries, deep psychological issues, suffer from HBP, or are pregnant should avoid this asana.
- Keep at least a 3-5-hour gap between practise and meal.

SILENT SIGNALS

This Men's Health Awareness Month, here is an essential guide to health signs and symptoms that men must not ignore

DR NITI KRISHNA RAIZADA

HEALTH is a valuable asset, and taking care of it should be a lifelong commitment. Men often neglect their health amidst the demands of daily life, overlooking warning signs that should not be ignored. Proactively seeking medical advice for any persistent or unusual symptoms can lead to early detection of potential health issues and improve outcomes. Here are some critical symptoms that men must not ignore:

CHEST DISCOMFORT OR PAIN: This is one of the most common signs that men should never ignore. While often associated with heart-related issues, chest pain can have various causes. Ignoring this symptom could be life-threatening. Any form of chest discomfort warrants immediate medical attention to rule out serious conditions.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH: Shortness of breath can indicate underlying health issues, both respiratory and cardiovascular. Attention should be paid to sudden or persistent breathlessness, especially during physical activities or at rest. It could signal conditions such as asthma, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) – more so in smokers – or even a pulmonary embolism.

UNEXPLAINED WEIGHT LOSS OR GAIN: Significant and unexplained weight loss or gain can indicate potential health problems that require attention. Sudden weight loss may be associated with underlying conditions such as cancer, hyperthyroidism, or digestive disorders. Conversely, unexplained weight gain could be linked to hormonal imbalances or metabolic issues.

FATIGUE AND LETHARGY: Feeling excessively tired, fatigued, or lacking energy regularly is not normal and should not be ignored. Persistent fatigue can be a sign of various conditions, including anaemia, depression, sleep apnea, or thyroid problems. Identifying the underlying cause and addressing it is crucial to restoring energy levels and overall well-being.

CHANGES IN BOWEL HABITS: Significant changes in bowel habits should be noted. Persistent diarrhoea, constipation, or blood in the stool may indicate gastrointestinal issues or even colon cancer. Timely intervention can lead to better outcomes and potentially save lives.

FREQUENT URINATION OR BLOOD IN THE URINE: Urinary symptoms such as increased frequency, urgency, or blood in the urine should never be ignored. These signs may indicate conditions such as urinary tract infections, kidney stones, or even prostate problems, including prostate cancer. Early detection and treatment are crucial for managing these conditions effectively and preventing potential complications.

PERSISTENT BACK PAIN: Back pain is a prevalent complaint, but if it persists for an extended period or is accompanied by other symptoms, it should not be disregarded. Persistent back pain can be indicative of spinal problems, kidney issues, or other underlying conditions that require medical evaluation.

MENTAL HEALTH: Work and the workplace significantly affect employees' mental health, either favourably or unfavourably. Thirty-two per cent of men have experienced a mental health issue or poor mental health due to work, and only a small percentage seek professional help. The issue is also often stigmatised. Societal pressures are immense, but this barrier must be broken.

AMLA - ACAI BERRY

Amla and acai berry are both powerful superfoods with numerous health benefits. According to Dr Chabria, amla, rich in vitamin C, antioxidants, and essential nutrients, even surpasses acai berry in vitamin C content, as amla has anti-inflammatory, antibacterial, and antiviral properties, benefiting chronic disease management, liver health, weight management, and cognitive function, making it a cost-effective and accessible alternative.

MORINGA - MATCHA

This Indian alternative to matcha is gaining more popularity due to its nutrient-dense profile and sustainability. Dr Chabria explains that while matcha is known for its high antioxidant content and energy-boosting properties, moringa offers similar benefits, along with additional vitamins and minerals, making it a powerhouse superfood that supports overall health and well-being.

Desi alternatives for foreign superfoods

KAVYA MAHAADEVAN

SUPERFOODS are like the superheroes of the food world. According to Dr Jyothi Chabria, a nutritionist and founder of Nutriline, these nutrient-dense gems are known for their exceptional health benefits and are packed with vitamins, minerals, and antioxidants that can give your well-being a serious boost. "While they can be a great addition to your healthy diet, fancy superfoods can either be expensive or hard to find in India. It is important to prioritise local and regional products, which can act as alternatives. Another important factor to consider is that the carbon footprint of that product is going to be very high," explains Sumithra, dietician at Qua Nutrition. To overcome these challenges, here are some expert-approved lesser-known Indian superfoods that are equally nutritious and serve as excellent local alternatives, all at a fraction of the cost.

SPINACH - KALE

Kale is a superfood known for its health benefits and cooking versatility. However, there is a flavourful and nutritious Indian alternative with a similar nutrient profile, says Dr Chabria. It is none other than spinach. Packed with vitamins A, C, and K, minerals like iron, calcium, and magnesium, and powerful antioxidants, Spinach acts as a great substitute for kale, offering similar health benefits and versatility in meals.

'GOOD WRITING HELPS ACTORS PERFORM BETTER, AND DIRECTOR PARAM EXCELLED WITH KOTEE'

A still from the film

...says Dhananjay as he opens up about his upcoming film, Kotee, his experience working with a director coming from the small screen, and more

A SHARADHAA

KOTEE, as we learnt from director Param, showcases some of his distinctive qualities, which are brought to life through the protagonist Dhananjay plays in the film. On the other hand, the actor admits that he found it easy to portray the titular character of Kotee due to his compatibility with director Param and that their personal rapport and professional collaboration made the experience smooth. Despite Kotee being Param's directorial debut, Dhananjay was confident about his abilities. "I always consider the person and their ways of thinking. Param is comfortable to work with and open to discussions. I know his work for television and writing for serials, and he understands cinema as a different medium. Good writing helps actors perform better, and Param excelled in his first project," says the actor.

Dhananjay believes that Kotee will see him return as a common man, similar to his role in Badava Rascal, but with a completely different characterisation. The film also stars Moksha Kushal, sharing screen space with Dhananjay for the first time, and Badava Rascal actors Rangayana Raghu and Tara. "These actors fit certain characters perfectly and create a kind of magic that can't be replaced," Dhananjay explains.

Reflecting on the title Kotee, which means crore (a large sum of money), Dhananjay mentions the excitement surrounding it. When asked about his relationship with money from childhood to now, he says, "Money deserves respect; otherwise, it won't stay with you. If you work sincerely, you earn the right kind of money. As a child, I valued every paisa and even lied to get pocket money. I truly learned the value of money when I paid off my education loan, which I took for my engineering studies. I quit my job to pursue films and managed to clear the loan with my project, Jessie."

Addressing the budget of Kotee, Dhananjay argues, "Why shouldn't such a film have a high budget? When you have a star, their remuneration also counts. The script demands that budget," he says.

Discussing whether it is worth investing crores in films in view of the scenario of the Kannada film industry, Dhananjay first refutes the notion that the industry is shutting down. "It can't be, and secondly, it is not a solution. However, investments depend on each project."

Coming back to Kotee, he signs off, saying, "We can't bring an audience just by saying that we have made a film. I wanted to bring it to reach people, only after I was confident about the producer. There was honesty in every step of Param, and in his direction, and so it was with the team. With confidence, I can say Kotee is a good film that can be enjoyed by all kinds of audiences."

Chef Chidambara offers a blend of humour, drama, romance, and action

CE FEATURES

CHEF CHIDAMBARA, directed by Anand Raj, is a dark comedy produced by Roopa DN under the Damthi Pictures banner. The lead actors—Aniruddha Jatkar, Nidhi Subbaiah, and Rachel David—shared with CE their thoughts on the film. According to Aniruddha, who plays the titular role, Chef Chidambara is a simple and unique film, unlike anything he has seen in Kannada cinema. "There is humour, drama, romance, and action, along with good music. The story revolves around death, which is usually serious, but it blends with comedy, setting it apart from other films," he says.

Roopa DN

Nidhi shares, "This film is special because I got to play a unique character, and I am glad that director Anand Raj considered me for this role. Having mostly played bubbly characters, this was different for me. I became greedy and immediately took up the role. I'm very excited to make a comeback after three years and am eager for the audience's reactions."

For Rachel David, known for her role in Love Mocktail 2, Chef Chidambara is special because it is the first time she has been dubbed for a film. "I play Anu, an entrepreneur. This story by Anand Raj is unique because it is a dark comedy, a first attempt for me, and the cast is refreshing."

The film features music and background score by Ritvik Muralidhar and cinematography by Uday Leela. It is set for a June 14 release.

Beauty in unlikely places

JAYABHUVANESHWARI B

THE director duo, Ross Brothers – Bill Ross IV and Turner Ross – are best known for their verite style of filmmaking. Their latest, Gasoline Rainbow, which was recently released on Mubi, is their first entirely fictional film. However, even then, they've gone for an observational and unscripted style of direction. The filmmakers are aware that this style of filmmaking is not for all, and that's why, when asked about the mixed reception for Gasoline Rainbow, they confidently say, "There are people who never get our films, which is fine. There are plenty of films out there for them."

The film revolves around a group of teens from Oregon who embark on an adventure to the Pacific Coast by road. On the elusive, poetic title, Turner reveals that they had a hard time trying to convey the meaning of the film through the title. The duo apparently went through a ridiculous process to finalise Gasoline Rainbow. "We got towards the tail end and didn't know what to call it," he says as Bill adds, "We would wake in the middle of the night, write a title down, look at it the next morning, and then reject it. We had probably 500 titles like that." Turner says, "The title means finding poetry in unlikely places, beauty in ugly things, or hope in toxic situations, just like finding a rainbow in gasoline."

A still from the film

The Ross brothers have mostly adopted a documentary style of filmmaking, especially the visuals. Even most of Gasoline Rainbow feels like a social media vlog by a Gen Z teenager. Bill says, "We didn't want it to be too pretty. We wanted the audience to feel like they were along for the ride as well." The film's dialogues also seemed to be penned in a way that could provide an up-close and personal experience for the viewers. "All the dialogues are from the actors. We had nothing written down as far as dialogue goes," Bill reveals. On why they went with an unconventional approach to dialogue writing, Bill explains, "I'm going to fail if I try to assume what two teenage girls are going to talk about on a road trip. So we really were striving to set up scenarios so that they could just be themselves and have those conversations."

The film revolves around two girls and three boys, all of them were played by debutants. The entire film relies heavily upon the camaraderie the five teens share, and Turner says that it was "movie magic" that made the friendship look so real, as the teenagers didn't know each other until they started filming. The actors were introduced to twists and turns as the camera was rolling. For example, in the scene in which the tyres of their van get stolen, they didn't know that they would lose them. Reflecting on their own improvisational style, Turner declares, "No doubt, it's an insane way to make a film."

Elaborating on their process, Turner says, "We work this way because we don't want to have a preconceived notion of what it should be, or predetermine what the actors would say, how they would feel, what they would do, in any given situation. We want to allow them to express themselves in their own unique way." On the limited appeal of such unconventional films, Turner signs off by saying, "We made the film we wanted to make, and everybody is entitled to their opinions."
